26 Escape When Fire Hits Hancock Children's Home

Twenty-six boys and girls fled out to safety Sunday afternoon when a $5,000 blaze damaged a dormitory on the second floor of the Hancock County Children's Home near Pughtown.

A Lawrenceville volunteer fireman died of an apparent heart attack at his home shortly after returning from the fire, which was battled by 41 men from four departments. He was Charles V. Wagner, 50, of Johnsonville.

William C. Graham of Chester, Hancock County commissioner and president of the Board of Trustees of the home, estimated the damage.

He said the flames broke out in a corner of the boys' dormitory while the 26 wards of the home and the supervisory staff were at lunch in the dining room on the main floor.

Mrs. Ellen Daily, superintendent, heard the fire alarm go off at 1:30 p. m. She ran to a hallway nearby and checked a panel indicating the fire was in the boys' dormitory.

Meanwhile, the youngsters fled out quietly and took seats in the playground. Graham said Mrs. Daily broadcast an alarm to the New Cumberland, Pughtown, Lawrenceville and Chester fire departments.

Lawrenceville fire department dispatched 15 men, a truck and squad car to the blaze in the rambling farmhouse, while Chester volunteer firemen were summoned to rush their entire supply of oxygen to the fire. Sheriff's deputies directed traffic along Gas Valley Rd., where the home is located.

The blaze broke out in a corner of the boys' dormitory — evidently in a wall locker of one of the youths, the commissioner said.

The flames destroyed six beds, six lockers containing boys' clothing, curtains, bed clothing, a section of the floor and wall and some windows. There also was some water damage and smoke invaded other sections. Graham said the loss is covered partially by insurance.

Graham was notified of the fire a few minutes after it was discovered. He said an electric clock in the dormitory was stopped at 1:35, indicating the time the blaze broke out.

Graham and other members of the home board went to the scene to aid in cleanup work. The beds, mattresses and other burned items were disposed of and temporary quarters were provided for the boys to sleep in the downstairs section of the building last night. The building is brick and frame.

In addition to Graham, the trustees' "cleanup squad" included Ernest John of Newell, Dick Wright of near Chester, former sheriff, Robert E. Roach, and Norman Ferrari and Charles Pughden, both of Weirton.

Graham commended the trustees and the volunteer firemen for their assistance.

"We are very grateful to the fire departments and very pleased with their quick response and their efficient work," he said. "They did a wonderful job."

Mr. Wagner was stricken at his home shortly after returning from the fire with the Lawrenceville department. Removed to City Hospital in an ambulance, he was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:05 of an apparent heart attack.

Mr. Wagner was born in Marietta to the late Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wagner. He was turn foreman at the 54-inch cold strip electric shop at Weirton Steel Co., where he worked for 30 years. He worked last on Saturday night.

He was a member of the First Christian Church of Chester and its I-Do Sunday School Class. He was a charter member and trustee of the Lawrenceville fire department and was institutional representative of Cub Scout Pack 49 and Boy Scout Troop 49 of Lawrenceville. He also belonged to the 30-year Club of the Weirton Steel Co.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Mabel Allen Wagner, at home; two sons, Charles E. Wagner of Weirton and David W. Wagner, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Ivan (Carol) Hapach of Midland and Miss Elizabeth (Betty) Wagner, at home; and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Dunlevy of Scottsdale, Pa., and Mrs. Donald Pugh of Chester.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Martin Funeral Home by Earliss Gleaton, minister of the Chester church. Burial will be in Union Cemetery in Pughtown.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday.

President, Adenauer In Vital Talks

Nuclear Navy And Strengthened Ties Receive Attention

BONN (AP)—President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today discussed problems involved in trying to create a multinational NATO nuclear navy and to strengthen the Atlantic partnership between the United States and Western Europe.

They met alone for two hours. Spokesmen for the two men also announced that they had talked over forthcoming East-West negotiations in Moscow on a nuclear test ban treaty. Their conference covered trade relations between the United States and the European Common Market as well.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said that the results of the talks, continuing into the afternoon, will be published in a communique to be issued later today.

Kennedy, who received a loud and enthusiastic welcome from half a million Germans at the start of his European tour Sunday, went to Adenauer's office in the Palais Schaumburg in late morning. The two men talked with only interpreters present.

At the same time, in a separate meeting at the Palais Schaumburg, other U.S. and German officials went into problems of Berlin, conditions in Communist East Germany and the proposal for forming a multinational nuclear force.

Salinger said that the multinational force project was talked out in greater detail by the ministers than by the government chiefs. While he would not make any of the details public, it was understood that the U.S. and German leaders were seeking allied action on setting up the force.

Salinger denied that Kennedy was having any more back pain than usual. The President suffers with chronic back trouble.

Kennedy's back seemed to be troubling him as he knelt at Mass Sunday in Cologne Cathedral.

Despite overcast skies thousands of men, women and children were out again to see Kennedy drive the four miles from the American embassy community at Bad Godesberg to Adenauer's office.

Kennedy was reported anxious to get agreement from Adenauer and other key allied leaders to open detailed negotiations soon on the NATO nuclear surface fleet. The President would like to get a treaty ready for submission to the U.S. Senate by next January.

The United States and West Germany agree on the need for such a force. The problem facing Kennedy and Adenauer is now to obtain the agreement of other allies, particularly Britain and Italy. Neither the President nor the chancellor wants an exclusively German-American nuclear force, officials said.

The President was reported to be in excellent spirits following the triumphant welcome he received Sunday as he journeyed from Wahn Airport in brisk sunny weather through the crowded streets of Cologne and Bonn. More than half a million people cheered his progress, and members of his party agreed his trip had gotten off to a highly successful start.

Looking at the clamoring thousands at one point, Kennedy said: "Gee whiz, it's too bad these people aren't American voters."

"It certainly was a nice welcome," he told German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder. "It could not have been better."

For most of the long, slow automobile trip, which ran from mid-morning until mid-afternoon, when he arrived at the U.S. Embassy residence in nearby Bad Godesberg, television carried the scene all over Western Europe. Kennedy's words were carried to

Held In Mississippi Jail

Man Charged In Slaying Of Evers, Negro Leader

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Byron de La Beckwith, white man, was held in Jackson jail today charged with the murder of Negro integration leader Medgar W. Evers.

Still unaccounted for in the killing of the 37-year-old Evers were "others unknown," charged along with Beckwith in a separate federal complaint made public after the FBI arrested Beckwith Saturday night.

Beckwith, a 42-year-old former tobacco salesman and more recently a chemical fertilizer sales agent, from Greenwood, Miss., talked with his attorneys, law partners Hardy Lott and Stanny Sanders of Greenwood, Sunday and was returned to his cell after about 30 minutes. He is being held without bond.

Jackson chief of detectives M.B. Pierce said police questioned Beckwith, but did not elaborate.

One of 15,000 telescopic sights and a fingerprint on it led the FBI to Beckwith at Greenwood. They found five of the imported Japanese six-power Golden Hawk sights went to Mississippi, all to a Grenada gun dealer.

One was traced to Beckwith, a gun collector, whom the FBI questioned Friday night without getting any answers.

Saturday night at a meeting arranged by Greenwood attorney Yerger Moorehead, a relative of Beckwith, FBI agents arrested

Mishap In East End Injures 3 Slightly; Car Struck In Park

Two youngsters and their mother were injured in a two-way mishap at E. 5th and Walnut Sts. Saturday midnight and three men were hurt slightly in a collision in East End Saturday afternoon, police reported.

Hurt in the downtown accident were Corrine Wright, 8, and Rebecca Wright, 5, and Mrs. Ruby Wright, 36, of 1237 Erie St., their mother.

Police said the three were hurt in a mishap that involved a 1956 four-door driven by the husband and father, John W. Wright, 35, and a 1957 model sedan operated by Jessie Collins, 38, of Smiths Ferry.

Rebecca suffered a laceration of the right lower lip; Corrine was treated for a laceration of the tongue and Mrs. Wright suffered abrasions and contusions of the right foot, police reported.

Collins told police he was halted because a car ahead of him stopped to pick up a hitch-hiker. Then his car was hit from the rear by Wright's, he said. The mishap damaged the trunk and rear bumper of the Collins car and the grill, bumper and radiator of the Wright auto, police said.

Three men were injured in the second mishap Saturday afternoon on Pennsylvania Ave. at Mellon St., which involved a 1962 sedan driven by Harold K. Goodballet, 23, of 1113 St. George St. and a 1959 sedan operated by John F. Morris, 65, of Dixonville, police said.

Goodballet suffered contusions of the bridge of the nose. Thomas Anderson, 21, of Clark St. suffered contusions of the left neck and head and Gilbert Smith, 36, of Beaver Falls was treated for a laceration of the chin.

Goodballet told police he was pulling from a parking spot when the Morris car crossed the center line and hit his auto. Morris said

Boating Accident Hurts Man Badly

A 27-year-old St. Clair Township man was injured critically late Sunday afternoon in a freak water skiing accident on the Ohio River off East Liverpool.

Dallas Carlisle of Calcutta, hit by the propeller of a motorboat operated by his wife, suffered a fracture of the left arm, lacerations of the muscles of the left forearm and multiple lacerations of the left arm, right wrist, head and neck, according to the Hancock County sheriff's office, which investigated.

Carlisle underwent surgery last night at City Hospital. He is in "fair" condition today.

CARLISLE was lying inert in the water, supported by a life belt, and grasping a tow rope and his wife, Mrs. Bonnie Carlisle, was at the controls of the motorboat, deputies said.

The wheel of the boat had been turned far to the right, but Mrs. Carlisle was unaware of its position when she shoved forward on the throttle to give the craft a rapid start and pull the skier up to the surface of the water, deputies said.

Instead of heading out in a straight course, the boat made a tight circle and struck Carlisle, deputies said.

FRED HOFF of Columbiana R

D. 2 was listed as a witness to the mishap. East Liverpool police said he apparently was in the boat at the time.

East Liverpool police first were advised of the mishap at 4:07 p. m. The watchman at the Broadway crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. saw a man in the river shouting for help.

Unable to call the local department direct, he notified the Pennsy's Yellow Creek tower with the railroad's private communication system. A worker at the Yellow Creek tower then relayed the report to the local department.

Lt. Charles E. (Bill) Tice and Patrolman Leonard Richard went to the riverfront in a cruiser to investigate.

WHEN THEY arrived, Carlisle had been retrieved from the river by his wife and Hoff and had been brought to shore in the boat.

The officers summoned an ambulance to remove him to the hospital. Since East Liverpool's jurisdiction ends at the low water mark of the river, the local department notified the sheriff's office in New Cumberland.

A deputy came to East Liverpool and secured details of the mishap from Carlisle. He said the accident took place in the Ohio underneath the Chester Bridge.

Bishop Gives Transfers To 3 Methodist Ministers

Ministers of Methodist churches in East Liverpool, Wellsville and Lisbon were assigned to new charges Saturday night at the final session of the 25th annual meeting of the North - East Ohio Methodist Conference in Cleveland.

Changes announced by Hazen G. Werner of Columbus, Ohio area bishop, which affect this region are:

The Rev. Glenn A. Brunstetter of the Pennsylvania Ave. Methodist Church, assigned to the Grace Church at Uhrichsville. No replacement was named.

The Rev. William A. Hewitt, minister of the Central Methodist Church of Wellsville and the High-landtown Methodist Church, transferred to the College Street Church in Newcomerstown. He will be succeeded by the Rev. Richard Maurer of Salem, assuming his first pastorate.

The Rev. William Brown of the Lisbon Church, moved to the North

3 States' Witnesses Called On Character Of Frank Robinson

A Common Pleas Court panel of five women and seven men is scheduled to enter a locked jury room at Lisbon this afternoon to begin deliberations on the guilt or innocence of Miss Roberta Smith of Fairmont St., charged with embezzlement and larceny in connection with a $23,841 shortage in the city water department's funds.

The jury will study testimony and argument heard in five days of trial before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard. The case opened last Monday.

The trial was in recess Friday, a day set aside for demurrers, motions and other non-jury matters.

Miss Smith was on the stand about 30 minutes Wednesday, then returned for five hours Thursday.

The state's case is based almost entirely on the testimony of Robert Lippincott of Poland, an examiner employed by the State Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices.

The state examiner filed a 42-page report covering an audit of the department's books for a 31-month period from May 1, 1959, to Nov. 30, 1961.

Lippincott declared in testimony Tuesday that Miss Smith had asked for an opportunity to make restitution of the money and asked how much time she would be allowed. He said she asked him the question on Nov. 28, 1961, as his audit neared completion.

But Miss Smith contended she did not use the word "restitution" because "that means paying back what you have taken." She said she "probably said I would have to make it up."

Miss Smith contends that she entered the office at City Hall one morning in September 1959 and found the vault door unlocked. In checking, she found that about $11,000 in the department's funds were missing from the vault, she testified.

Miss Smith told the jury she reported the disappearance of the money to the late Frank K. Robinson, who was superintendent of the department.

Miss Smith testified when she told Mr. Robinson of the missing money "he was surprised, he said 'he would take care of it, not to say anything about it.'"

She said he later told her to "use the money coming in to cover the stubs that were there." Miss Smith said the shortages appeared to get worse and "I never knew exactly where I was." She said she never could balance her books after the disappearance of the money was discovered.

Twelve witnesses paraded to the stand after the case opened Monday. The defense rested its case at 3:10 p. m. Thursday. The state had rested Wednesday at 10 a. m., but called one rebuttal witness to the stand after Miss Smith had finished her testimony.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw summoned three rebuttal witnesses to the stand this morning to testify as "character witnesses" on behalf of the late water department superintendent.

Bringing to 15 the number of witnesses for the state's case, they were E. B. Laughlin, Harold Peterson and Frank O'Hanlon.

The prosecutor also called Lippincott for further questioning to show that the stubs for the month of September 1959 were all accounted for in that month and not at a later time.

In The Profumo Scandal

8 New Charges Levelled Against British Doctor

LONDON (AP) — The British government leveled eight new morals charges today, one of them involving abortion, against Dr. Stephen Ward.

The 50-year-old osteopath, a key figure in the Profumo scandal, was again refused bail. He went back to jail to await a full hearing Friday.

Nature of the new charges, one accusing Ward of procuring a woman identified as "Miss X," emerged in legal fencing between defense and government lawyers.

Ward was arrested June 8 on charges of living off the earnings of prostitution. The prosecution announced at his first court appearance that it had more serious charges against Ward. Rumors immediately began flying that the charges might involve security or blackmail, but Ward's attorneys said the latest accusations concerned neither.

Defense attorney James Burge said the first five new charges are expansions of the original charge. The sixth, he continued, "refers to a lady, Miss X, being procured on Jan. 5, 1963, and is all really part of the same allegation."

The other two charges accuse Ward of advising "an unknown person" to commit a crime—"unlawfully using an instrument to procure the miscarriage of a woman," Burge said.

George Wigg, Labor party expert on defense and security, charged that three Americans who

Gray Ladies Get Service Awards

Five Red Cross Gray Ladies received special awards for outstanding volunteer service at the joint capping and award ceremony of the East Liverpool, North Hancock and Wellsville Red Cross Chapters Friday night in the First Methodist Church.

Miss Lena Palmisano was given a gold pin as an award for 1,895 hours. Mrs. Eva Hilton, Miss Ada Nicklin, Mrs. Florence Gloeckner and Miss Phyllis Crook were presented silver pins denoting 1,000 or more hours' service.

Miss Nell Robinson, superintendent of City Hospital, Mrs. Dennie Singer, Miss Crook and Dr. John Hayes, administrator of Osteopathic Hospital, gave the special honors. Mrs. Singer awarded service stripes to 38 Gray Ladies who had contributed 100 or more hours.

THEY ARE: 900 hours, Mrs. Mary K. Bryan; 800 hours, Mrs. Marie Hays and Mrs. Marion Thompson; 700, Mrs. Ruth Wolam; 600, Mrs. Violet Johnson, Mrs. Gladys Lemon, Mrs. Nellie McLain and Mrs. Sylvia Mercer; 500, Mrs. Laura Allison, Mrs. Dorothy Davis, Mrs. Helen Monier, Mrs. Alice Menchon, and Mrs. Singer; 400, Mrs. Louise Belaney, Mrs. Helen Ward, Mrs. Alverda Graham, Mrs. Mary Hughey, Mrs. Anna Jean Hobbs, Mrs. Catherine O'Brien and Mrs. Marieta Smith.

Three hundred hours, Mrs. Evelyn Balser, Mrs. Pauline Clewlow, Mrs. Elizabeth Dobbs, Mrs. Thelma Sample and Mrs. Helen White; 200, Miss Leona Abrams, Miss Helen Capehart, Mrs. Alma Dalrymple, Mrs. Marge Dray, Mrs. Josephine Fugate, Mrs. Freda Glendening, Mrs. Arlene Greenlee, Mrs. Josephine Smith and Mrs. Gertrude Stephens; 100, Miss Barbara Eddy, Mrs. Myrtle Plant, Miss Betty Grimes and Mrs. Nancy Pittenger.

MRS. HAYS, chairman of Gray Ladies, noted that 24,868 hours of service had been contributed since the inception of the Gray Ladies' program in 1960. During 1963, 9,517 hours have been recorded thus far, with 1,602 hours served by the new class that was graduated Friday night.

Mrs. Helen Bemis, medical-surgical supervisor at City Hospital, presented caps to the 36 new Gray Ladies. Mrs. Hays gave pins to the six adult volunteers while Sidney Porter, president of East Liverpool Area Camp Fire Girls, distributed pins to the 30 high school girls who were eligible for the course as Horizon club members.

The adults are Mrs. Betty Barnard, Mrs. Doris Corns, Mrs. Edith Herrington, Mrs. Virginia House, Mrs. Clara Snyder and Mrs. Flora Stockdale.

Mrs. Hays presented the graduates and recommended them for service to Miss Robinson and Dr. Hayes, who formally accepted them for duty at the two hospitals.

Highlights of the program were the welcome by James Walker, local chapter chairman, and a talk, "Let's Stay Americans," by Jack Alpern. The invocation and benediction were by the Rev. Russell Mase, pastor of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church. Mrs. Dan Richards played an organ prelude. A memorial tribute was given for the late Mrs. Nellie Coen.

SOME 200 attended the reception in the social rooms of the church. A red satin cloth covered the tea table which was centered with red, white and blue flowers and silver candleabra. An anniversary birthday cake, commemorating the founding of the Red Cross 100 years ago, was decorated with Red Cross flags and figurines of Civil War soldiers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Balser, Mrs. Permelia Kilmer, Mrs. Springer, Mrs. Mercer and Mrs. Luella Myers. Table decorations were arranged by Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Singer, Mrs. Virginia Harris, Mrs. Lillian Alpern and Mrs. Thompson. Staff Aides served as ushers.

Battle At Jail Injures Man

Richard Grogg, 33, of 1st St., Newell, injured when attacked by another prisoner in City Jail at 4:30 a. m. Sunday, was admitted to City Hospital with a possible fracture of the right jaw and abrasions of the lip, police reported.

Grogg named as his assailant Paul Baker of Beaver Falls, who was charged with assault and battery, police reported.

Patrolman Howard Frontz, desk officer, said he investigated after hearing a disturbance in the cell block. Acting Lt. K. H. Mooney and Patrolman Paul Carter joined in the check of the cell block and questioning of Grogg ultimately produced the report that he had been struck and kicked.

When we jewelers buy diamonds for our stock, there are several things we look for. Most important, even before color and clarity, is how the diamond is proportioned. By this is meant how precisely and well the stone is faceted and polished. After all, nature does the work of creating this splendid jewel; it is only up to man to properly cut it in order to release its prismatic fire.

The science of optics provides the basis for the fashioning of a diamond, regardless of whether the final gem is to be a round brilliant, marquise, oval or emerald shape. Besides the angle at which the facets are cut, the proportion of the stone above and below the girdle line is of prime importance. If the lower part of the diamond is too deep, or too shallow, an undue amount of light will escape out the bottom facets of the stone. This results in a gem showing little fire or brilliance—one that appears somewhat lifeless.

A well cut diamond, even of a smaller carat weight, will be more brilliant, and therefore look larger, than a stone that is cut with shallow proportions. Some of the older diamonds often were cut with too much gem remaining below the girdle line, and these when recut under modern methods, gain greatly in beauty and value.

When buying any diamond, be sure to patronize a jeweler such as ourselves who has had professional training in diamond grading. The untrained jeweler may be as much in the dark about what constitutes a well-cut stone as the person to whom he is trying to sell it. The scintillating fire and sparkle is what makes a diamond so special in everyone's mind. Unless your stone is correctly fashioned, this beauty is forever lost, and the value of the stone seriously impaired.

by Baker for no apparent reason, police said.

Grogg is in "fairly good" condition today at the hospital.

Baker, 34, a former East Liverpool resident, entered an innocent plea in Municipal Court to the assault and battery charge which Grogg signed this morning at the hospital.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff granted a request for continuance by Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark and scheduled Baker's hearing for next Monday at 9 a. m. He set Baker's bond at $500.

Grogg had been in jail about 30 minutes awaiting posting of bond on a reckless driving charge. He was cited at 4 a. m. on E. 3rd St. by Patrolman R. J. Brookes.

Baker and his wife, Thelma, 37, were arrested at 3:24 a. m. by Acting Lt. Kenneth Mooney and Patrolman Paul Carter on charges of fighting.

Baker, who pleaded guilty, was fined $10 and costs while his wife, who entered a not guilty plea, was fined $10 and costs but the penalty was suspended on payment of costs.

Meanwhile, Wellsville police also served a warrant on Baker charging him with assault and battery June 10, 1961, on Clyde H. Moore of Wellsville. Baker's address at that time was listed as 718 Leonard St.

Woman's Finger Hurt In Door Of Police Car

Mrs. Jean Elda Franklin, 44, of 2001 Michigan Ave. was treated at City Hospital Sunday at 12:10 p. m. for an injury to the right index finger which she said was suffered when her hand was caught in the door of a police cruiser.

Patrolman Jerry Adkins reported he was dispatched to the hospital to pick up Mrs. Franklin, as she was due for release and the department had an intoxication charge against her. As she alighted from the cruiser at headquarters, she shouted that her finger had been caught in the door, the officer said.

Officer Adkins returned the woman to the hospital, where she was treated and released. He said she told him the finger was hurt initially when her husband closed a car door on it about two weeks ago.

Mrs. Franklin was fined $25 and costs when she was convicted by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff at a hearing this morning in Municipal Court.

Radio Club 'Jubilee' Draws 500 At Lisbon

LISBON — Approximately 500 attended the "jubilee" of the Pennington Citizens Band Radio Club Sunday at the County Fair grounds.

The club draws its members from Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Last year's attendance at Thompson Park in East Liverpool was almost 1,000, according to Floyd Saltsman of Wellsville R. D., chairman.

Radio equipment prizes were given away at intervals during the affair from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. The Lisbon Lions Club operated a refreshment stand.

Catholic Unit To Meet

LISBON — The advisory board of the Catholic Service Bureau will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Rectory of St. George's Catholic Church. Don Archibald of East Palestine, president, will preside. It will be the board's last meeting until fall, according to Miss Mary Catherine Donahue, executive secretary.

Named As 'Knight Of Year'

Midland K. Of C. Honors Verzella

William T. Verzella of Industry was honored as "knight of the year" when Midland Knights of Columbus Council 2005 held its 44th anniversary banquet Sunday in the Azure Room at Deramo's Restaurant.

Verzella, who has been a member of the council 21 years, is a past grand knight and now is serving as financial secretary. His award was presented by Dr. William J. Costello of Philadelphia, state deputy, who was guest speaker.

Ten members of the council who served as grand knight also were honored. They were Dr. Frank Benedict, Peter Benedict, Angelo Cellini, Richard McDonald, Anthony Martell, Dominic Scarlera, Gene Rodford, Louis Bruno, Emeric Davis and William Verzella.

Following the dinner, Dr. Costello officially opened the annual art exhibit sponsored by the council.

Peter Benedict, Emeric Davis and William Verzella were co-chairmen of the event.

The Points Seem Well Taken

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, in the June issue of its publication The International Potter, makes a good case for the discontinuance of yearly conventions.

This is a matter that more and more must be concerning not only labor unions but other organizations as the skyrocketing costs of such get-togethers raise the question as to whether "the trip is necessary" each year.

The publication's editorial by E. L. Wheatley, IBOP president, has this to say: "The first and foremost reason (for discontinuing yearly conventions) is the cost. . . . With costs rising for transportation and maintenance, the expense of holding conventions every 52 weeks is becoming prohibitive. It is costing you, the rank-and-file members, a lot of your dues money to send over 200 delegates to annual conventions."

"Last summer your international paid out almost a quarter of a million dollars of your dues money in transportation costs of delegates and the international staff to travel to the San Francisco convention."

The Brotherhood leader points out that other international unions in the AFL-CIO long since have changed to conventions every two, three, four or five years.

When such a proposition is brought up, from some quarters there generally is a suspicion that the officers are trying to "pull a fast one."

Mr. Wheatley explains his position, however, in this way: "But even as costly as it has become, the practice of holding annual conventions would be worthwhile if it were essential for the continued growth and development of this labor organization which exists for one sole purpose: to defend you, the rank-and-file members. But it is not necessary! We have an ample international staff with many years of administrative experience, fully capable of satisfactorily carrying on the work of this international for more than 12 months at a time without the advice and assistance of delegates to the convention. We hold wage conferences on an annual basis. We have trade meetings. We have every type of meeting which has been shown to be necessary to safeguard the best interests of you, the rank-and-file members who pay the costs of running this organization. . . . In addition, the constitution provides for special conventions to be called whenever necessary and desirable."

As an outsider, but as one most seriously interested in the welfare of the potters and their brotherhood, we feel his points are well taken and deserve the most serious consideration.

Play It Safe

Sunday's water skiing accident in which a Calcutta man was cut by the propeller points up again the need for extra care when taking part in the various boating activities on the Ohio River or at district lakes.

Boating is fun, but it also is dangerous unless caution is exercised at all times.

The river was alive Sunday as a bright, sunny day brought out the enthusiasts in full force. Boating on a busy river is like driving on a crowded highway. And with the summer pleasure season just getting into full swing, more and more boaters will be attracted to the area.

A recheck of mechanical equipment and a review of safety regulations will do much to keep boating accidents at a minimum.

Good Leadership

Another nod in the direction of the many adults who serve as counselors at the various youth camps throughout the district.

With 4-H, Scouting and other centers in full swing, the important jobs that the older staff play comes to mind once more.

Camp programs are only as beneficial as the work that the adult leaders put into them. Fortunately, the great majority of such leaders in the district are dedicated to their work and our youngsters are the better for it.

If she should try to powder her nose, the powder could make the inside of the capsule look like a snowstorm.

And how can a woman ever be ready on time for blastoff?

If a man wants to shave while way out there, he can have a miniature vacuum cleaner to catch the whiskers, but if a woman wants to pluck her eyebrows there might be eyebrows floating all over the place.

And how will she get out of the capsule and flag down some helpful male if the capsule gets the equivalent of a flat tire in the middle of nowhere, such as halfway between Jupiter and Pluto?

The old argument about whose turn it is to wash the car will be switched to whose turn it is to wash the capsule.

When capsules become big enough to carry two or more persons, will a man be expected to offer a lady his seat? And will there be room for a man to tip his hat?

On long flights, there undoubtedly would be some dainty little things drying on a line, which would be sure to block the view.

And what an opportunity for the brunette who always wanted to be a blonde! With all that peroxide aboard for maneuvering the space craft, the temptation could be too much to resist. A gal could go up a brunette and come down a blonde, and what a surprise it would be for her family and friends.

So you can see, Twill, what we are in for now that the fair sex is literally out of this world. You and I can disapprove as much as we want to but we will have to put up a flood of this kind of stuff. Get a firm grip on yourself.

FAITHFULLY YOURS,
MAX

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

Brace yourself, friend. We are in for a spate of stories about lady astronauts, now that women has once again invaded what was formerly an exclusive domain of the male.

The sad thing about it is that she asked for it. Women can't be blamed for wanting to get out of the kitchen, but ever since they joined the men in the barber shop, billiard parlor, saloon, voting booth and now space, they've cried foul and moaned about getting a dirty deal.

For years, you and I have gritted our teeth with displeasure at the lampooning women drivers have taken, even though everybody knows women are better drivers than men. Young ladies even get a lower auto accident insurance rate than young men, which should prove the point.

So now we will begin to hear about the lady astronaut who stuck her hand out of the space capsule to signal a turn for Mars and then swung off in the direction of Venus, thus confounding the man astronaut in the capsule behind her.

And when she takes off, she will manage to bang the escape hatch on the gantry, putting big dents in both.

Eventually some women will forget and open her purse in space and the weightlessness will cause the air in the capsule to become cluttered with hairpins, lipstick compact, keys, billfold, tissue, trading stamps, sticks of chewing gum, theater ticket stubs, lozenges and who knows what all.

She may take advantage of idle time by putting her hair up in curlers, which could cause disastrous radio interference and start the dashboard dials spinning.

Going To Grass

A friend of mine who makes a special thing of a lawn that looks like a putting green was close to tears when he described the damage done by some sickness that left ugly brown patches on this verdant loveliness.

Other friends have made similar reports of heart-break over adversity. They break me up.

This is as good a time as any to tell why, when the grass season is at its climax. If a few thousand suburbanites find comfort in the reason for my amusement, it will have been worthwhile.

I was a sod perfectionist until the Twillery was transferred to Rosy Fingert Dawn. Then I turned into a sod philosopher.

A sod philosopher goes along with the natural plan for covering the earth with verdure. He does not fight nature. Nor does he succumb to it completely. He realizes that noxious weeds like dandelions and thistles must be grappled with, not with the idea of exterminating them but of keeping them from exterminating him.

It is like the battle against sin, which is waged unceasingly and never won, yet is worth fighting because otherwise sin would be rampant, wouldn't it? And virtue would be routed. . . well, wouldn't it?

Anyway, to get back to the grass that grows in RFD, it's variegated. On the Twillery acreage there is every kind of grass that grows in this climate. When you get tired of looking at one kind you can walk 100 feet and look at another kind.

There is the kind that grows in gravel driveways and the kind that grows in marshes. There is a special variety that grows along creek banks and a pestiferous kind that grows in gardens, where it isn't wanted.

There is grass so wiry it stalls a mower, grass offensive even to sheep, grass sought after by dogs that browse on it so they can regurgitate, grass that grows under apple trees, grass that grows under cherry trees—every kind of grass there is.

Mostly it grows in separate patches, but not uncommonly two or three varieties will be mixed together, along with two or three kinds of weeds. Included, of course, is crab grass, usually regarded as a pest but esteemed at the Twillery for its hardness, like the chickweed that is its rival for preventing erosion.

With systematic effort, the Twillery flower beds are kept relatively free of grass and weeds. The air is so full of seeds of all kinds that every square inch of unsurfaced area would be covered with verdure within two weeks, if the effort stopped.

It is like the clearings that men hack out of the jungle, only to see the jungle reclaim its own—and to a sod philosopher this is reassuring.

Nothing man has done so far has changed the fundamental design of a green earth. He can tear holes in it and fill it up artificially to suit his decadent tastes, but within a fortnight of his disappearance the earth would be the way it always was intended to be—covered with a green carpet of everything that grows in the ground.

The smallest known insect is a minute wasp that parasites the eggs of other insects. The adults of these creatures are less than 1-100-inch in length.

We May Have Something To Say, Too!

Jobless Problem Gets Attention

By Donald I. Rogers

The Labor Department has released figures showing that more than one million young Americans are unemployed, the highest level since records were started in 1949, and, as more schools close across the land graduating millions more into the labor market, the figure will increase.

One of every four on the unemployed rolls is between 16 and 21 years of age, and the labor secretary has cautioned that the situation could "develop into one of the most explosive problems in the nation's history."

The accumulating statistics indicate that youth idleness contributes heavily to juvenile delinquency, crime and racial tension. The Negro youth unemployment rate is almost twice that for white youths.

The figures also show that the unemployed youth tends to create permanent unemployment problems.

THESE REPORTS on joblessness among the young, just beginning to emerge from the statistical mechanisms in Washington, add weight to the already burdensome problem of chronic high level unemployment in the nation's work force.

It's a problem that is receiving primary attention from both the administration and the opposition party, for while it is socially incendiary, it is politically inflammable as well.

In the over-all problem of mounting unemployment are such large-order issues as automation, the shorter work week, tax revision to permit more job creating capital investment, and the great surge of newcomers to the labor force.

The youth unemployment problem is magnified by the crop of "war babies" entering the labor market, but in the opinion of several experts, summarized by Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., one of the basic problems is lack of training.

Congressman Byrnes quotes one such expert as testifying that there are 4 to 6 million unemployed at the same time that there are 4 to 6 million job openings, and the difference lies in the lack of skills.

IN A MEMO to his constituents recently, Rep. Byrnes points out that today only one job in 10 is unskilled, and he predicts that the number will diminish in the future.

"Yet," he said, "youths drop out of high school without completing minimum education or knowing a trade. In too many areas, vocational education is neglected or not geared to modern job demands."

"Skills are kept in short supply through union policies, sometimes with management cooperation," he charged, citing the fact that in 1950 there were 231,000 apprentices and in 1960 only 166,000.

While the obvious solution to the youth unemployment problem lies in training them, Rep. Byrnes said the administration prefers the establishment of another corps — a Youth Conservation Corps — to send youths to camps in the woods, which would likely encourage school drop-outs. It would not train them for work, and would only delay their ultimate necessary training.

The proposed cost, $4,000 per youth per year, would be enough to send a boy to one of the finest universities.

On the federal level, while Congress has accorded cool reception to a proposed Youth Conservation Corps, a bipartisan bill is in the works which would expand federal aid to vocational education and redirect its emphasis toward skills required in the changing economy.

THOSE CONCERNED with the problem, however, believe that in the meantime localities should examine their educational systems to determine whether they are meeting the needs of those who will not go to college but who will have to be trained in a skill needed in today's economy if they are to become employed.

States, too, should examine their laws which impede the hiring and training of beginners.

To this, Rep. Byrnes adds the suggestion that managements and unions take a positive approach toward training apprentices and beginners, and eliminate practices designed to limit skilled workers in areas of job demand.

After Adoption

By Harriet Stix

The five-year-old who asked her kindergarten classmates "Were you adopted or born?" was expressing one of the untalked about facts of life: adopted children — and their parents — are different.

The difference does not begin and end the day the couple bring baby home, a fact which adoption agencies have long recognized. In placing a child, they do not look for people who deny the difference — rather they hope to find those who recognize and are able to cope with it.

One agency, the Louise Wise Services, has for some time been holding a series of discussion groups for their adoptive parents several years after the legal adoptions have taken place. To date around 300 couples have attended.

With just about every group, the same questions have been raised. Some of these are: What and when to tell the child about his biological parents? Should he be told he is illegitimate? What should one say about why he was given up?

SUPPOSING HE doesn't ask any questions? What about the use of the word "chosen"? What should the community at large be told? the school?

Mrs. Florence G. Brown, director of the Louise Wise Services, says that telling a child he's adopted is a very trying time. "We would be kidding ourselves if we denied this is tough on everyone. It is one thing to have a theoretical discussion, quite another to live with it."

Moreover, she has no pat formulas to offer — "just as with telling a child about sex."

Telling is something that evolves, Mrs. Brown believes. There are as many don'ts and do's. Thus Mrs. Brown believes that you cannot keep changing the story as the child gets older. (Not all authorities agree with this here.)

There does not mean you have to "throw the book at him," tell everything at once. A 5-year-old really is not interested in the question of illegitimacy.

A lot of parents toy with the idea of ducking this question when it is asked, by saying the natural parents died.

In the past, many agencies recommended such an answer. In those days, adoption was so much less common that there was a chance of getting away with it. In 15 years the adoption rate has doubled.

In any case, she thinks it's a bad idea. With some youngsters, you just can't get away with it. They want to know where their parents are buried, where their relatives are.

Sometimes it raises anxiety. Every time mother gets the sniffles the possibility that she, too, will die comes up.

Telling the child his parents were married when in fact they were not, is no solution either. Often it is harder to understand why a married couple would "give away" their child. "Why did the other people give me up?" is bound to be a burning question as the child grows older.

"Whether or not the mother was married isn't really the issue, anyway," Mrs. Brown points out, "since some unmarried women do, in fact, provide a home for their baby. What it boils down to is that these were not able to."

The neutron was discovered by James Chadwick of the Cavendish Laboratory in Cambridge in 1932.

Civil Rights Laws

By David Lawrence

Constitutionality Is Questioned

President Kennedy has proposed to Congress that it enact certain civil rights laws and he assumes they will be held constitutional by the Supreme Court.

But the truth is these same proposals are of doubtful constitutionality, and members of Congress who have taken an oath to uphold the Constitution will have a hard time deciding whether, by voting for such legislation, they will be violating or sustaining the Constitution itself.

A little more than 88 years ago, Congress passed a law providing for equal accommodations in public facilities — hotels, restaurants and eating places. It sought to ban racial discrimination but the Supreme Court of the United States, in an action known as the Civil Rights Cases, decided in 1883, held that Congress had no power under the 14th Amendment to write any such laws and that its only power was to nullify state action of a discriminatory character.

THE SUPREME COURT decision was by an 8-1 vote, and the majority opinion said:

"It is clear that the law in question cannot be sustained by any grant of legislative power made of Congress by the 14th Amendment. . . . The law in question, without any reference to adverse state legislation on the subject, declares that all persons shall be entitled to equal accommodations and privileges of inns, public conveyances, and places of public amusement, and imposes a penalty upon any individual who shall deny to any citizen such equal accommodations and privileges."

"This is not corrective legislation; it is primary and direct; it takes immediate and absolute possession of the subject of the right of admission to inns, public conveyances, and places of amusement."

"It supersedes and displaces state legislation on the same subject, or only allows it permissive force. It ignores such legislation, and assumes that the matter is one that belongs to the domain of national regulation."

"Whether it would not have been a more effective protection of the rights of citizens to have clothed Congress with plenary power over the whole subject, is not now the question. What we have to decide is, whether such plenary power has been conferred upon Congress by the 14th Amendment, and, in our judgment, it has not."

It was declared by the court that Congress could pass a law nullifying what a state had done by way of racial discrimination, but that it could not deal with a situation in which a state has passed no law or taken no action whatsoever.

The citizen's remedy, it was pointed out, lay in procedures through the states and not through the federal government.

Mr. Kennedy in his message pointed out that there are 30 states which have enacted laws against discrimination in public places, and he seems to feel that, when the states fail to pass such laws, the government can step in and do so. It's precisely this extension of federal power which the Supreme Court in the 1883 case declared unconstitutional.

ON THE MATTER of employment, the President is stepping on delicate ground when he insists that the federal government can compel an employer to hire somebody whom he does not wish in his employ because of friction among his other employees due to racial feeling.

Incidentally, the President had one sentence in his message which probably will be received with much enthusiasm by national organizations that have insisted that there is an inalienable "right to work" and that state laws are needed to forbid labor unions to make a contract with an employer which would compel the latter to fire an employee who refuses to join a union. The President said:

"Denial of the right to work is unfair, regardless of its victim."

There are other implications in the President's message which will complicate the legal controversies that are bound to arise if the civil rights proposals he made are enacted into law.

Thus, for instance, the President hints that some day private schools may be proceeded against. He says:

"While this (proposed) act does not include private colleges and schools, I strongly urge them to live up to their responsibilities and to recognize no arbitrary bar of race or color — for such bars have no place in any institution, least of all one devoted to the truth and to the improvement of all mankind."

What will provoke the most embarrassment for members of Congress is that part of the President's proposals which deal with uses of public funds.

HE ASKS Congress to "pass a single comprehensive provision making it clear that the federal government is not required, under any statute, to furnish any kind of financial assistance — by way of grant, loan, contract, guaranty, insurance or otherwise — to any program or activity in which racial discrimination occurs."

The President would leave the determination of whether a grant, a loan, a contract, guaranty or insurance can be given to a local project if the local administrator who represents the federal government thinks there is any racial discrimination involved. While the objective may be considered a worthy one from the standpoint of equal opportunity, the means to be used would be of doubtful constitutionality. There is no precedent for action of this kind.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

An answer to Judge Chertoff. In my letter I said we sure get justice in our courts. I did not say I was fined $20 in our local court, nor did I say that boy was either.

I know as well as anyone else that there are other courts and I do know that for speeding there are various fines that depend on numerous things.

I remember the night I was arrested for going through the stoplight. I saw the police car to the right of me on 6th St. I was halfway when it turned red. I didn't think I was going to get arrested or I would have stopped almost under the light.

There are any amount of times that it happens that way and very seldom is anyone stopped for it. To me, I didn't crash the light. I paid $11 as it was cheaper than hiring a lawyer. Not that I was guilty. It was between 11 and 11:30 at night. And I was arrested one morning out by Rock Camp. The patrolman sent the ticket to the Salem court. The time of the arrest was between 3 and 4 in the morning.

I was guilty of speeding, but not at an excessive speed. I was doing between 65 and 70 on a clear highway.

East Liverpool and Lisbon were closer and I live in East Liverpool. I often wondered why the ticket was sent to Salem.

Judge, I am not ashamed of either arrest, but I do read the papers pretty well from the front to the back and very seldom is anyone tagged $20 and tried 27 miles from home.

Beef, Poultry Top Bargains In Food Markets Of District

Beef and poultry are the best meat buys this week in district food markets, with both in ample supply, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service at Canfield.

The production of beef continues well above a year ago, and at about the same level as the last three or four months. Large marketings of fed cattle are expected to continue into the summer with little price change likely during the next few weeks.

Broiler supplies, too, are quite large now, in anticipation of a heavy demand during the summer months. Retail prices are at about the same level as a year ago. Specials on broilers are quite common, and offer opportunities for money-saving choices this week.

Pork prices are beginning to level off after retail prices followed live animal prices upward after a low-priced period in the spring. Little change is expected over the next few weeks, except for cured pork products.

A greater variety of fresh fruits on tap this week. Strawberries are one example. Although the supply is not large this year, the season for this commodity is quite short with the season now at or slightly past the peak. By the Fourth of July, strawberries from local sources will be but a memory until next season, except for a few everbearing patches and for supplies laid away in freezers. Cantaloupe quality continues to improve. Prices are unchanged this week, or perhaps even a bit higher. In our locality the plentiful season for this item usually arrives about mid-August when Ohio and Indiana fields begin to furnish quantities of this product.

Watermelon prices took a sharp drop last week and then recovered a bit this week but prices are now close to the lowest level that can be expected over a period of time. Quality is generally excellent.

Peaches and bananas also are fruit choices this week at a rather reasonable price level. Quality of peaches, which has not been the best in many cases during the last few weeks, is gradually improving. Much of the criticism of peaches has been directed at fruit which was not yet ripe enough to be sold at retail.

West Coast cherry supplies are now coming to market in volume but the supply is less than normal, and prices are above average. Tart cherries, produced in this area and around the lower Great Lakes area are ripe now but in short supply because of cold weather damage.

Several items of fresh vegetables deserve consideration this week. Because of variation in grades and quality, final choices on many of the products will have to be made in the store. Green beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, as well as greens, peppers, tomatoes and squash are examples of produce available at reasonable prices.

Scandal

have been working out of London were behind an international blackmail syndicate providing call girls for top men in London and New York.

Wigg said the three Americans fled London after exposure of some ramifications of former British War Minister John Profumo's affair with call girl Christine Keeler. Wigg did not name them.

Wigg, who first called attention in the House of Commons to rumors about Profumo and Christine, added in newspaper and television interviews that another major government scandal involving security risks will be exposed within six months.

British newspapers reported that two U.S. Air Force men have been recalled from Britain to Washington for questioning. The reports said they were Airman Charles Lee Wright of Mount Vernon, Ill., and Sgt. George Hopkins of Bellaire, Ohio.

Both were stationed at 3rd Air Force headquarters at Ruislip, west of London, and both had known Christine, who was the mistress of an assistant Soviet naval attaché at the same time she was having an affair with Profumo.

The two Americans were shipped out of Britain Friday after being questioned at Ruislip.

They will be interrogated in the Pentagon, papers reported.

Christine has said she once spent some time in the south of France with a high-ranking U.S. naval officer. Her friend Mandy Rice-Davies, 18, says she was on weekend terms with an American diplomat in Paris.

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror gave its entire front page today to denying the nationwide rumor that royalty is mixed up in the affair.

Under the headline "Prince

Philip and the Profumo Scandal" it said:

"The foulest rumor which is being circulated about the Profumo scandal has involved the royal family.

"The name mentioned in this rumor has been Prince Philip's. 'The rumor is utterly unfounded.'

It said three members of the royal family — Prince Philip, Princess Marina and Princess Alexandra—had sat for portraits by Ward, also an artist.

But it added that this was Ward's only contact with any member of the family.

Christine also told the weekly News of the World that no members of the royal family "are involved in my story." She said she also had not met any government ministers except Profumo.

Local Army Reserve Group Will Train At Virginia Camp

Sixty-one members of Co. A of the 7th Tank Battalion, the local Army reserve unit, will depart this week for two weeks' summer training at Camp Pickett, Va.

Capt. John W. Muller Jr., commander, said the main body of men will leave Saturday at 4:30 a. m. by air from the Youngstown Airport. Forty-five will fly. An advance unit will leave by private car Tuesday night to complete arrangements at the camp for the men.

Four motor vehicles of the unit will leave Saturday morning with the gear. They will join a main convoy of about 50 units to the camp.

The men, including 57 enlisted men and four officers, will train in tank maneuvers and firing.

They are scheduled to return July 13.

Capt. Muller said all the men should attend a drill Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Armory on Poplar Ln. in civilian clothing. Their military clothing should be packed and brought with them to be loaded for departure.

Any member unable to attend the meeting should contact him at FU 5-5335 as soon as possible to obtain information concerning the departure times.

Training will be held tomorrow night on "Communication in the Tank Battalion" with SP. 5 Thomas Gerace, SP. 5 Lesley Keys, SP. 5 Fred McCoy and Sgt. Frank Boyd in charge.

Council Session Set

SALINEVILLE — At a meeting tonight at 7:30, village Council will act on an ordinance for abandonment of an alley adjoining E. Main St. and other legislation for renewal of a street light levy. Council also will discuss seeking county aid for resurfacing of Main St.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Crane —

Dear Friends: Today let's discuss the kitchen drawer in which we all keep our daily cutter.

This is the drawer, ordinarily next to the kitchen stove, where our favorite knives and spoons and no telling what else, are kept.

While reading this, let's think to ourselves, "Now what is in that drawer?" Bet we can't make a complete list before we look!

How much of it is really necessary?

What do we actually need? Can we find our favorite knife immediately? And spoon?

When we clean it, do we just remove all the "stuff," get the crumbs out, line it with new paper and replace everything and let it go?

We'll be right back where we started. Still having to knock everything aside to find that favorite spoon or knife.

Let's play "beat-the-coffee-pot." This is a game that members of the Heloise clan use. Put the pot on and while it is heating... get something done!

WHILE WAITING for that coffee or tea, we'll remove the entire drawer from its cupboard and place it on the drainboard. Put some newspaper down on the drainboard and literally pour out everything in the drawer onto the paper.

Just look at all that excess junk and clutter! Whatever do we need all this mess for? We have only two hands. There are umpteen spoons and only four burners on the stove. How could anyone use umpteen at one time?

Wipe out the drawer. If we have roaches, now is the time to paint something on the underneath side of the drawer. Look for roach eggs at the same time.

Line the drawer, whether it be with newspaper, a paper sack or bag, adhesive-backed paper, cardboard, foil, waxed paper, etc.

Now... let's not throw all that stuff back in the drawer. Stop, look and think.

"What do we really use every day?" Pick out your favorite butter knife, paring knife (not five of them... remember that you have only two hands again and can use only one at a time!), spatula, egg turner, can opener and can use only one at a time!), spatula, egg turner, can opener and not MORE than four spoons. We'll replace these in the drawer. Where we probably will have our downfall is when it comes to the spoons. Just how many spoons (old at that) do we have in that cluttered drawer? Six or eight perhaps (this is the average!). We only have four burners on our stove, and can't possibly use more than four while cooking a meal.

NOW, WE'RE going to say, "But we have had these spoons for years and can't throw them away. We don't have to. If they have sentimental value... we'll get a big brown paper bag and put all these excess items in it."

Put the bag with all these excess items in the garage or closet. If we don't go into that old kitchen grab-bag within a week, then it's a proven test that we could do without it. If we decide later we have to have it... it's always there.

How many bottle openers do we have? About six? We can open only one bottle or can at a time. We just keep them because they were free and we think someday one might not work. We can still open

Air Guard Wing Gets New Leader

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sixteen years ago, his World War II pilot's wings still shiny, Paul E. Hoover joined the Ohio Air National Guard as a very junior second lieutenant.

Saturday, the Air Guard's 121st Tactical Fighter Wing winds up its annual two weeks of active duty with a change-of-command ceremony at Lockbourne Air Force Base. And Hoover, now a lieutenant colonel, will become wing commander.

He succeeds Brig. Gen. Dale E. Shafer Jr. of Germantown, the World War II fighter ace who has commanded the wing since Feb. 22, 1959. Shafer, whose civilian job is chief pilot for Dayton's paper-making Mead Corp., moves to Headquarters, Ohio Air Guard.

Shafer and Hoover flew F4F fighter-bombers to France when the wing was activated in the 1961 Berlin crisis. Hoover stayed at Etain Air Base as jet squadron commander, but Shafer was ordered back to Ohio to command wing units which remained in the United States.

In March 1962, Hoover became commander of the overseas segment of the wing, serving for five only one bottle or can at a time so pick up the best two and put them back in the drawer.

WE GO THROUGH all our equipment this way.

What we can do without, we don't need. Get rid of it so we CAN find something quickly. Saves time and nerves. Eliminates excess cleaning, clutter, etc.

It pays off. We will have a glorious feeling tomorrow when we open this drawer and find what we are looking for immediately. Simplicity is the answer to our problems.

Get out of that chair and let's clean just that one drawer today. HELOISE.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

months until the Ohioans came home. He became a group commander upon returning, then deputy wing commander.

The 121st Wing has units at the Lockbourne base south of Columbus, Mansfield and Springfield.

Strong Quake Noted Off Coast Of Africa

WESTON, Mass. (AP) — The Boston College seismographic station recorded a strong earthquake 5,500 miles southeast of Boston at 11:35:31 p.m., EST, Sunday.

A spokesman said the tremor was in the vicinity of the Canary Islands off the coast of Africa.

The official name of India is Bharat, in honor of a legendary emperor.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Chat To Lose Fatty Hips

One of Eve's daughters devised a swing-system that works sheer magic. You swing while chatting on the telephone. By this plan you can slim off excess hip inches without really trying.

Interested? The secret is to stand up and swing as you converse on the telephone. To steady your stance, use the back of the chair in which you usually sit while telephoning. Hold the receiver in the left hand... grab hold of chair back with right hand. Swing right leg forward briskly, then swing forcibly back, keeping knee straight. Hit a rhythm, swing forward, swing back and forward again. On the second swing to the rear, h-o-l-d.

Holding is amazingly toning, for you use the principle of isometric contraction. Hold the muscle contraction for a sentence or two... it should be for six seconds, and swing again. Then swing with the left leg.

THIS NOVEL streamlining tip came from a North Carolinian. She promises it works like a charm and this Southern belle has a callipygian curves to prove it. Callipygian? That's Greek for a shapely derriere.

The swing also brings the front-line muscles into the action, thus restoring bracing tone to the girdle muscles. The technique is to swing against the resistance of the opposing muscles. Keep knee straight and tense the leg muscles as you swing. Try it, you have nothing to lose but flabbiness.

With this secret slimming system, our exerciser swung eight inches off the hipline! If you are talking with a friend who is also streamline minded, you might swing in unison... for double the rewards. Anything that's fun takes the tedium out of exercise.

IF YOUR downfall is party sweets, you can handle the situation with white kid gloves. Wear a pair of spotless white kid gloves and resolve in advance not to take them off, and not to soil them.

The congressman's wife who passed along this imaginative idea claims it's a sure way to keep from sampling all the goodies on the tea table. It isn't just the gloves, of course, but the fact that you give forethought to how you want to cope when confronted with assorted carbohydrates. Picture yourself absorbed in conversation at the party, perfectly groomed in white kid gloves! This system too is fun and freeing.

What ingenious methods have you devised to cope with corpulent calories? Pass them along, won't you?

Send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope for Slim Hips In A Hurry to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

The Social :- Notebook

Mrs. Carolyn Channels read "A Toast to Daughters" at the mother-daughter coverdinner of the McGaffie Memorial and Naomi Bible Classes of the Boyce Methodist Church Friday night at the Boyce Auditorium.

The poem was written by Mrs. Chleo Dasher Goodman. Mrs. Jessie Gilson sang "The Old Fashioned Song" and was joined by her sister, Mrs. Virginia Ward, for the duet, "How Great Art Thou." The group sang "How Great Thou Art." Mrs. Ethel Armstrong offered prayer.

Mrs. Florence McGaffie, president, presided. Recognition was given Mrs. Wilma Huelz of Beaver Falls, daughter of Mrs. Gladys Lisk, for traveling the farthest.

Covers were arranged for 37 at the tables decorated with roses, daisies and candy tuft. Book-markers were favors. Mrs. McGaffie, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Edna Kidder, Mrs. Della Montgomery, Miss Lynn McGaffie, and Miss Ann McDowell.

There will be no July meeting and the next is scheduled Aug. 2 with Mrs. Clara Thorn of Michigan Ave.

Mrs. Gladys Handley of England was guest speaker at the closing coverdinner of the Wesleyan Class of the First Methodist Church Friday night with Mrs. Nellie McLain of Mayberry Ln.

A cousin of the hostess, she told of customs and life of the country. Mrs. Victoria Willis, president, conducted business and named Mrs. Nettie Scheffer, Mrs. Beulah Spahr and Mrs. Daisy McCain to the nominating committee.

Class officers were in charge of arrangements with places marked for 26. Garden flowers were decorations. Guests were Mrs. Ellen Devon, Miss Jessie Henry, Miss Eva Stoddard, Miss Luella Thompson, Miss Maude Baum and Mrs. Maude Logan.

A coverdinner Sept. 20 at the church will open the fall season. Miss Margaret Baum will present the program. The dinner committee is comprised of Mrs. Lettie Plant, chairman, Mrs. Maude Flesch, Mrs. James Plantz and Mrs. Georgia Shenton.

The Chatter Chicks Club will meet Thursday with Mrs. Jean Maxwell of St. Clair Ave.

The Stork Club will meet Wednesday with Mrs. Sondra McLain of Moore St.

A contribution of $25 for the new swimming pool at Beaver Creek Camp was allotted at the meeting of the Annie Kell Friendship Class of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church Friday night with Mrs. Lulu Cummings of W. 5th St.

Mrs. Helen Allison, president, presided. The class will provide altar flowers July 14 in honor of deceased members.

Mrs. Anna Gauron conducted devotions on "What Is Worship." She read an article, "Anna, the Prophetess", and each member gave a Scripture verse. Mrs. Hilda Laufenberger read a poem, "Periwinkle."

Mrs. Goldie Garner conducted a program of games with prizes going to Mrs. Ida Conkle, Mrs. Cummins and Mrs. Laufenberger. In one of the contests each member received a sweet pea corsage. Refreshments were served 20 by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Alice Pierce and Mrs. Conkle. Mrs. Vida Jordan of Chester was a guest.

A 5:30 o'clock coverdinner will be held July 17 at the home of Mrs. Marie Hays of Smithfield St.

First and travel awards at 500 went to Mrs. Dorothy Palmer at the closing session of the Amegs Club Friday night with Mrs. Katie Sablack of Ohio Ave.

Other prizes went to Mrs. Anne Lucas and Mrs. Ellen Harris. Mrs. Virginia McDonald received a wedding anniversary gift from her secret pal.

Lunch was served. Mrs. Delma Gillespie of Blaine St. will entertain in September.

The DNI Club will be entertained by Mrs. Alice Jones Thursday at the home of Mrs. Kathy Nuzum of Vale St.

The annual strawberry social of the Amikita Class of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church was held Friday night in the social rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peroshn and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gamble were in charge of arrangements. Miss Hazel McShane was a guest.

Peroshn, president, conducted business when future projects were considered.

A swimming party will be held in July at Beaver Creek Camp.

A 6:30 o'clock coverdinner will feature the meeting of Crystal Club of Eastern Star Chapter 18 Friday at the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Pearl Capehart, Mrs. Emily Mountford, Mrs. Frances Bussard and Mrs. Nellie Birch comprise the committee.

An article, "The Month of June," was read by Mrs. Frank Haynes at the meeting of the E. A. Walker Bible Class of the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church Friday night with Mrs. Grace Morris of Garner Ave.

For devotions, she read Scripture from Prov. 4 and offered prayer.

Mrs. Morris, president, conducted business. Get-well cards were signed. Plans were made for a family picnic Aug. 30 with Mr. and Mrs. Haynes of Calcutta.

Lunch was served by the host-

Angeline Capous Becomes Bride Of Michael Vitellas

Miss Angeline Capous wore a bouffant butterfly veil when she became the bride of Michael K. Vitellas the afternoon of June 9 at 5 o'clock in the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church of Steubenville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Capous, 340 River Ave., Chester, and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Vitellas of Calamoti, Chios, Greece.

The Rev. D. N. Sakellarides, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms and ferns. The family pews were marked with satin bows. John Melianos was guest cantor, Kenneth C. Galas, cousin of the bride, was soloist, and Mrs. Mary Pappas, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white peau de soie and Alencon lace fashioned with a portrait neckline, outlined in Alencon lace.

The fitted bodice had long, pointed sleeves with lace motifs on the points. The full bell-effect skirt, with panels of lace across the front, featured unpressed pleats at sides of skirt extending through the back and the chapel train.

A matching pillbox held her veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and ivy centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Georgia Sarandinos, cousin of the bridegroom, was kourpara and wore a yellow chiffon over taffeta dress accented with yellow streamers and flowers. Her corsage was of orchids.

Miss Marjorie A. Capous, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a dress of pink silk organza, styled with a scoop neckline, three-quarter-length sleeves and a draped overskirt accented with a self bow. Her matching Dior bow held a theater veil.

Bridesmaids were Miss Demetria Melissinos, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Anita Dawn Kulich and Miss Nickie Fellozou. They wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor, but in ice blue.

All the attendants carried cascade bouquets of carnations with tips tinted to match their dresses. Their pearl pendant necklaces and white gloves were gifts of the bride.

Bert Moyer of Franklin, Pa., was best man. Ushers were George Peters of Pittsburgh, Martin Kulich of Midland and Lucas Rigas of East Liverpool. They received matching wallets and key cases from the bridegroom.

Beckwith under provisions of the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

"Beckwith and others unknown conspired to injure, oppress and intimidate Medgar Evers in the free exercise and enjoyment of rights and privileges secured to him by the Constitution," the FBI said.

Evers was state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Capt. Ralph Hargrove, chief of the Jackson police identification bureau, fingerprinted Beckwith Sunday and said his prints matched one on the scope attached to a .30-caliber rifle that fired the fatal shot.

It was Hargrove who first discovered the latent print—one invisible to the eye but brought out by chemicals.

Jackson detectives discovered the gun in mid-morning of June 12, about 10 hours after Evers was shot down in his driveway, in a honeyuckle thicket near where officers believe the shot was fired. Beckwith, a member of the die-hard segregationist Citizens Council and described as a man who hated Negroes, faces death in the state's gas chamber if convicted on the murder charge.

New 'Railroad' Set

To Begin Operations

NORTH FREEDOM, Wis. — The nation's newest railway, "The Rattlesnake & Northern Line," is set to begin operations soon. Actually, the line is 4½ miles of spur track abandoned by the North Western Road and purchased by the Mid-Continent Railway Historical Society.

The museum will operate an "old time train" over the line, taking tourists on the nine-mile 45 minute trip through the scenic Baraboo River Valley.

The adult Atlantic mackerel would suffocate if it stopped swimming, since it requires a continuous flow of water to keep its blood supplied with sufficient oxygen.

Miss Barbara M. Stevens And William Allison Wed

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Barbara Mae Stevens and William Nathan Allison the afternoon of June 8 at 4:30 o'clock in the Westminister United Presbyterian Church of Chester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Stevens of Chester R. D. and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Allison, 370 Indiana Ave., Chester.

The Rev. William Claghorn, minister, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar background of palms, ferns and seven-branch candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews. Mrs. Theodore Martin, church organist, presented a quarter hour of wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scalloped neckline and long pointed sleeves. Lace motifs and a chapel train accented the skirt.

Her silk illusion veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis tied with satin streamers. Her heart-shaped pendant was the gift of the bridegroom. She observed the traditions, including the six pence in her shoe.

Miss Carol Lacava was maid of honor and Miss Thea McSwain was bridesmaid. They wore Nile green silk organza sheaths designed with overskirts. Matching headpieces with theater veils and white gloves completed their costumes. They carried Colonial bouquets of orange tea roses, yellow tea roses, and lily-of-the-valley. They received pendant necklaces as gifts from the bride.

Kimberly and Lisa White, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David White of Madison, were flower girls. Wearing pink dresses, they carried baskets of white asters. Ralph Smith III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith Jr., was ring-bearer.

Norman McNally was best man. Ushers were Dave Stevens, brother of the bride, and Dave Waples. The mother of the bride chose a poudre blue eyelet embroidered dress and the bridegroom's mother wore beige lace. White accessories and orchid corsages complemented their attire.

Mrs. Ralph Smith, grandmother of the bride, wore aqua and white print with beige accessories, and

MRS. WILLIAM ALLISON
Bride Of Chester Rites.

Mrs. Madge Douglas, the bride's great-grandmother, wore brown and white accessories. They had a pink carnation corsage.

A reception followed in the social rooms under the supervision of Mrs. Marie Cosgrove. The bride's table, covered with a white cloth, was centered with a three-tier cake, topped with a bridal couple and encircled with pink and white asters.

Aides were Miss Kathy Smith and Miss Jane Smith, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Glen Logston, Mrs. Richard Mey, Mrs. Eugene Burch and Mrs. Arch Pritchett.

Other guests were from Newell, New Cumberland, Weirton, Steubenville, Columbus, Springfield, Philadelphia, Frankfurt Springs and Paris, Pa., Shadyside and New York City.

For her honeymoon at Presque Isle, the bride wore a black brocade sheath with white accessories and her bridal orchid.

The newlyweds are graduates of Chester High School. The bride was graduated from Presbyterian University Hospital in Pittsburgh and is employed on the staff of Weirton General Hospital.

Her husband was graduated from West Liberty State College, majoring in education. He was affiliated with Chi Nu Fraternity. He is employed by the Hancock County School system.

The couple is residing in the Arner Apartments on Carolina Ave., Chester.

The bridegroom's parents entertained for the rehearsal party.

Archaeologist Dies

Reunion Attracts 1923 Graduates

About 45 attended the reunion of the Class of 1923 of East Liverpool High School Friday night at the Travelers Hotel, with husbands and wives as guests.

Atty. Donald Shay was toastmaster. Welcome remarks were given by Dr. Francis Irwin. Dr. Clarence VanMeter discussed his experiences as research scientist at the University of Pennsylvania. Letters and telegrams were read from class members who were unable to attend.

The group decided to hold the next reunion in 1968.

The planning committee included Mary Weaver Irwin, Dorothy Bevington Evans, Mildred Rigby, Mrs. Marjorie Potter Birbeck, Dr. Irwin, Dr. Reid Calcott and Atty. Shay.

Gertrude VanMeter of East Liverpool was a guest.

Pope

splendor—is to contribute to the affirmation of peace founded as Pope John XXIII proclaimed with authority on the four pillars of truth, justice, love and freedom.

"Following his example, we plan to undertake in this domain all that depends on us," he said. The four pillars Pope Paul referred to were outlined in Pope John's encyclical "pax in terris"—peace on earth.

Pope Paul, speaking flawless French as he addressed the assembled diplomats, said the Roman Catholic church favors principles of humanity and civilization on which are "based the harmony of international rights and obligations."

"On their observance depends for the great human family the establishment of a true peace, that incomparable but always threatened treasure of individuals and peoples," he said.

Pope Paul seemed at ease among the diplomats. Many were old friends from the days when he was Giovanni Battista Montini, Vatican pro-secretary of state. After speaking from his throne, he walked among the diplomats and chatted with almost everyone.

It was a busy morning for the new Pope, elected scarcely 72 hours earlier. Before receiving the diplomats, he held a special audience for the priests of Rome in the Clementine Hall.

At the end of the audience, Pope Paul seemed almost moved to tears as he gave his blessing to the thousands of priests gathered in the hot and humid hall.

He spoke to them in a firm and clear voice, telling them the spreading of the gospel in "our modern and so profane world, especially so hostile to religion, depends above all...on the clergy."

Pope Paul said his period as archbishop of Milan had "sort of trained him" for a dialogue with the "protagonists of the modern world: Scientists, artists, industrialists, businessmen (and) that giant but still sometimes shortsighted and uncertain protagonist, the working man."

Meanwhile, Pope Paul was reported to have guaranteed continuation of the Christian unity organization set up by Pope John XXIII.

The organization is the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, headed by Augustin Cardinal Bea, 82, a German Jesuit.

Official Vatican sources said that when Cardinal Bea approached during the initial homages by the cardinals in the Sixtine Chapel Friday, Pope Paul expressed great pleasure with the secretariat's work and said he wanted it continued.

Such an endorsement is known in the Vatican as a papal "placet" (it is pleasing)—an official though unwritten stamp of approval.

The secretariat was created in 1960 to be the Vatican's liaison with other Christian churches and to invite Protestant and Orthodox churchmen to the Ecumenical Council. It is regarded as one of the most liberal organizations in the Vatican.

The secretariat existed only upon the word of Pope John, however, and had not been added to the permanent organization of the Church.

The Ecumenical Council is expected to get back into full session early next year. Pope John recessed the council last December until Sept. 8. Pope Paul announced last Saturday he would continue the council.

millions within and beyond the borders of Germany.

The President did not mention French President Charles de Gaulle by name. But much that he said was designed to answer De Gaulle's argument that Western Europe needs its own independent nuclear force or national forces—such as France is building—because it cannot rely on U.S. protection in some future crisis with the Soviet Union.

Kennedy aimed a direct blow at De Gaulle's challenge on this point in his very first statement. Responding to Adenauer's welcome at the Wahn Airport, he told the Europeans:

"So long as our presence is desired and required, our forces and commitments will remain. For your safety is our safety, your liberty is our liberty, and any attack on your soil is an attack upon our own. Our fortunes are one."

The United States and West Germany agree on the need for such a force. The problem facing Kennedy and Adenauer is how to obtain the agreement of other allies, particularly Britain and Italy. Neither the President nor the chancellor wants an exclusively German-American nuclear force, officials said.

Kennedy and Adenauer conferred for an hour and 40 minutes. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and other aides spent 20 minutes with them. Then the two government chiefs met with only an interpreter present.

After his morning meeting with the chancellor, Kennedy drove 500 yards to the Villa Hammer-schmidt for an official call on President Heinrich Lübke.

Plane Crash Hurts 2 Men

WEIRTON — A pilot and passenger escaped serious injury Saturday afternoon when their amphibious plane crashed into the woods three-fourths of a mile from the Weirton Airport, where they had just taken off.

Edsel Dearth, 43, of Weirton, the pilot, suffered a chin laceration which required five stitches, while his passenger, William Boley, also of Weirton, received minor ankle injuries. Both were treated at Weirton General Hospital.

The plane owned by Charles McElroy of Follansbee is a total loss. The cause of the crash hasn't been determined pending completion of an investigation by the Federal Aeronautics Administration.

Dearth said he was about 200 feet in the air and climbing at 85 miles an hour when he noticed the plane was losing altitude.

Dearth said he made a slight turn and decided to set the plane down in the woods to avoid a home and a carnival in the area.

The crash, which sheared off both wings, was witnessed by several airport personnel. Dearth and Boley were taking a ride over the area and were due to return to the airport. The crash was about a quarter of a mile from busy Route 22.

Local Masonic Group Marks St. John's Day

John Washington Masonic Lodge 62 celebrated St. John's Day with a special service Sunday afternoon at the Second Baptist Church.

The sermon was by the Rev. E. D. Arrington. Joseph Porter, worshipful master, served as master-of-ceremonies.

About 40 attended. Aaron Golding, worshipful master from Midland, and James Guy and Elsworth Guy, past masters of the Eastern Light Lodge 64 of Steubenville, were guests. Music was by the Lee's Chapel Choir of Wellsville.

The day was highlighted by a basket picnic at Thompson Park.

"Diurnal" means daily.

If you want miniature shells for canapes, drop half-teaspoonfuls of cream-puff batter onto a greased baking sheet, leaving room for spreading. Bake in a 400-degree oven for about 15 minutes.

Acceptance, Not Sympathy, Is Goal

Social-Functional Teaching Plan Employed For Mentally Retarded

This is the second of two articles on the educational program that has been set up in Columbiana County for the mentally retarded.

By GLENN WAIGHT

The 46 youngsters at the Elkton School for mentally retarded are basically happy, not knowing the concerns and apprehensions normal children may have.

Most of the retarded girls and boys have good memories concerning physical happenings and past incidents, but do not have a comparable sense of time or distance and do not comprehend more complex concepts.

THIS IS THE reason the teachers use a social-functional type of teaching rather than an academic approach.

The range of mental achievement varies in each group. Some of the youngsters will be able to recognize basic words and do simple adding or other arithmetic. Others will not reach such levels, perhaps learning certain signs or counting to ten or twenty by rote.

Almost all the children have speech defects to some degree, often related to a hearing difficulty. A few are totally deaf; others cannot speak.

There are no curriculum guides available for the school, and most of the instruction has been prepared by the teaching staff. Curriculum plans are now being prepared by the Ohio Association of Teachers of Retarded Children, of which Mrs. Martsoff is secretary.

At present, the school is operating on a six-part curriculum which includes: 1—Self Care, 2—Language, 3—Muscle Training, 4—Self Expression, 5—Music, and 6—Understanding Environment.

THE CHILD is taught to wash himself, brush his hair and do other personal things for emotional satisfaction and to save the parents' time.

Language work aims at helping him to make his wants and needs known and to understand others. Reading on a simple plane is designed to give him pleasure and for social and job safety aspects.

Muscle training aids in his muscular co-ordination, posture, outlet for inner tensions and energies and for job activities, arts and crafts.

Programs for helping self expression are used for permitting the youngster to overcome frustration, to be aware of himself and others and to develop perceptual abilities.

MUSIC AIDS in improving speech, developing auditory perception, and changing moods. He is taught about his environment to have a clearer image of himself, where he is and to understand time and how to react to exterior orders and sounds.

Report cards, which are really paper folders listing the pupils' progress, include evaluations of social behavior, traits, health habits, work habits, speech factors, lunch behavior, personal activities, muscular development and academic advances.

The academic progress list includes: "can print his name, can name colors, can say name and where he is living, shows interest in books, can associate related objects, recognizes numbers up to —, recognizes and can name some of the letters, recognizes pictures, knows days of the week, can name months."

A TYPICAL kindergarten class opens with the Pledge of Allegiance, singing of "America" and the Lord's Prayer. Then there is a "conversation time" in which the children relate experiences at home or on the way to school. This helps the child to learn to express himself and to develop social contact.

Counting and coloring follow, with a mid-morning recess for milk and recreation. Then come table games or peg board work for manipulation practice or various room activities, recitation or art work.

Lunch lasts from noon until 12:30, then there is a rest period, other room activity, recess, story time, class work and dismissal at 2:30.

The older groups follow more advanced programs, for example, basing their classroom spelling, arithmetic and art work on one theme, such as road signs, airplanes or farms.

All the students carry lunches, although it is hoped there will be provision for hot meals next term. At present two half-pints of milk are provided daily to each student at a cost of 15 cents to the parents.

PLANS ALSO call for enlargement of the work shop program for the older students who have shown exceptional ability at various tasks undertaken so far.

On an experimental basis, the older group has been processing mail advertising for some district firms, having assembled, folded and inserted various types of files and promotion material, then sealed and stacked them with skill and speed.

For one firm, the class-aged 16 to 20—glued a penny on a folder, inserted and processed some 12,000 such mail items. The class has handled up to 2,500 pieces daily.

This work was done without charge as an experimental class project which may be utilized as a profit service in the future.

THE CLASS also has a machine which makes decorative bows out of ribbon—sold at holiday times—and plans are being made to further utilize a machine which cuts old clothing into rags for bundling and sale to garages, after salvaging the metal zippers for re-sale.

A paper-shredding machine may also be obtained for providing packing materials for area potteries.

Although the school will apparently have five classes next year, it still is not accommodating all the retarded in the county. In fact, there are no definite figures on how many such young people there are who might qualify, because the parents have not brought them in and because records are incomplete.

State surveys indicate, however, there should be at least seven classes in the county, based just upon the general proportion of retarded in a population of 107,000.

But the work inside the wooden school and its predecessors has brought a change not only in teaching the retarded, but in the public and family attitudes toward them.

There has been a noticeable shift in the attitude of public school officials throughout the county. Originally some of the schools were reluctant to participate because their leaders may have been apprehensive about the project.

But now, all the systems co-operative; administrators endorse the program, school psychologists and testing systems are utilized to channel students to the school, and tuition is paid for the pupils.

THE PUBLIC, through acquaintance with the County Council work, local and nationwide publications and radio and television, understands more of what retardation is and what can be done for it.

Parents are more willing to act to aid their retarded youngsters than in previous years when many youngsters were kept shut in, unable to meet with others and to learn to become a part of society.

For many years there was thought to be a stigma attached to mental retardation, that slow-wittedness was the result of similar mental limitations of the parents or grandparents.

But studies have shown that heredity is attributed to only a very small percentage of the retarded in this type of relationship.

What does cause retardation? There were 14 mongoloid youngsters in the school this past year, boys and girls whose mental and physical development have been retarded to varying degrees and whose features include slanted eyes and a flat skull. Research has shown that such children may be born of normal parents whose chromosome structures are incompatible.

Other children in the class have deficiencies which can be traced to prenatal accidents, injuries during birth, falls or diseases suffered as an infant.

IN THE CLASS were two youngsters termed hydrocephalic, with large heads due to brain fluid; two others called microcephalic, walk Church. He will be succeeded by the Rev. F. A. Shiltz of the Barnesville First Church.

In addition, the Rev. Jacquelyn Craig of the Columbiana Church was transferred to the Palmyra-Pricetown charge in the Akron District.

The annual conference, launched last Tuesday, attracted 1,400 ministers and laymen. It covers the Akron, Cleveland, Cambridge, Canton, Mansfield, Norwalk, Steubenville and Youngstown Districts.

East Liverpool is part of the Steubenville District. In going to their new charges, both Rev. Hewitt and Rev. Brunstetter will be entering the Canton District.

Pastorates of other East Liverpool area churches were left unchanged.

Rev. Brunstetter explained that no new minister was assigned to the East End church because of a shortage of personnel. However, he said the vacancy may be filled soon in action by Bishop Werner or the district superintendent's office.

Rev. Brunstetter has been minister of the East End church since April 1, 1956, coming here from the Irontide - Hammondsville charge. A native of Warren, he has been a minister since 1945.

In serving the Uhrichsville church, he will have a congregation of about 475 — approximately twice the size of the congregation in East End.

Rev. Brunstetter and his wife, Mary, have two sons, Paul and David.

The conference rule calls for the official move to the new charge to be made July 1-2. However, all the newly assigned ministers expect to preach to their new congregations for the first time next Sunday.

Rev. Hewitt has served at Wellsville and Highlandtown for five years. The membership at Central grew from 189 to 299 under his ministry and the Highlandtown membership from 68 to 90.

The membership at the Newcomerstown church is 337.

Conversion Case

Slated On July 2

A Toronto man, a former area resident, accused of converting a set of ladders to his own use, is scheduled for a hearing July 2 at 9 a. m. in Municipal Court.

Roy Monroe entered a not guilty plea when arraigned before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning on the affidavit filed by Sam Thomas of E. 4th St. He was released on his own recognizance.

The charge alleges Monroe, a former Chester area resident, rented a set of ladders on June 6, 1962, at a fee of $2 per day and was to return them by June 9, 1962.

Since June 9, the affidavit charges Monroe has "unlawfully, wilfully and fraudulently with intent to defraud Sam Thomas, secreted the said ladders and converted them to his own use or sold them or destroyed them as the case may be."

deposits with her "take home pay" of $247 or $248 monthly for the 31-month period which the audit of Lippincott covered.

He told the jury that Miss Smith's deposits in checking and savings accounts amounted to $10,435 while she earned only $7,691 and also paid an additional $2,240 to her mother in payments of $70 monthly for board. Thus, she deposited $12,675 in the period, with her "take home pay" only $7,691, he said.

Miss Smith had testified during her trial that the difference was accounted for in her deposits of funds given her by her family as reimbursements for using her charge account, her winnings at Waterford Park Race Track and an insurance policy which she converted to cash.

But Baronzi argued that his comparisons did not show Miss Smith's expenditures for recreation, wagering on the horses, holiday gifts, charitable contributions and lunches at the race track.

Baronzi called Miss Smith a "fanatic" horse player, declaring she would visit the track on her lunch hours, and send bets at other times.

Brokaw followed with an hour of arguments and Defense Atty. Frank Springer argued his case for Miss Smith. Judge Buzzard's charge followed.

Miss Smith appeared in the courtroom in a dark dress with a white collar and frequently doodled or wrote in a small pad. More than 25 persons jammed the courtroom as the case neared the jury this morning, largest gallery audience since the trial began.

Miss Smith was tried on an embezzlement charge in connection with the same case last December, but it ended in a "hung" jury that was unable to reach agreement.

A few months later, the Grand Jury returned the larceny indictment. She pleaded not guilty at arraignment March 5, setting the stage for the second trial.

The jury is comprised of: Marie Tweed, Alice B. Menchon and John Wood, all of East Liverpool; Richard Kevan of Wellsville; Neva Branchio, Burton B. Sutter Jr., Lawrence Valentino and Moynelle Jones, all of Salem; George Yankovich and Alice Welch of New Waterford and Frank Hasson of Lisbon R. D. 2. Ferne Cunningham of East Liverpool is alternate.

East End Motorist Loses License 2 Years In Court

An East End motorist had his license suspended for two years and was fined and jailed when he pleaded guilty this morning in Municipal Court to a drunk driving charge.

Earl D. Miller, 927 St. George St., drew the lengthy suspension on the charge filed by Patrolman Paul Blevins, who cited the motorist at 6:22 p. m. Friday on Mulberry St.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff told Miller, 59, that he had learned the defendant has expressed a willingness to enter into the Alcoholics Anonymous program.

If Miller goes along with the program, he can file an application for the return of his license at the end of the first year, Judge Chertoff said.

Judge Chertoff also fined Miller $100 and costs and sentenced him to five days in jail with the defendant to receive credit for the time he had served since his arrest.

Paul H. Kapp of St. Clair Ave. Ext. was fined $10 and costs after pleading guilty to a reckless driving charge filed by the State Highway Patrol Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

The patrol said one motorist had stopped on Routes 7 and 30 to make a left turn on the Y. & O. Rd. and another was halted behind the first. Kapp passed both on the right and then cut in front of the first halted car and made a left turn onto the Y. & O. Rd., the patrol said.

Joseph H. Bassett of Toledo, cited for reckless driving by passing another car and a tractor-trailer at the crest of the Cannons Mill hill on Routes 7 and 30 at 11:45 p. m. Friday, was fined $10 and costs, but the fine was suspended on payment of costs.

Bassett originally pleaded not guilty but switched his plea when notified the hearing would be continued until Wednesday morning because of the absence of the arresting officer.

The patrol said Bassett originally passed without the assured clear distance forcing the approaching cruiser to slow down to let him back in the line of traffic. Before the officer could overtake the Toledoan, he overtook and passed the car and truck on the hillcrest, it said.

Gina And Educational TV

"Georgia Broadcasters Complain Ratings Going to Educational TV's Nudity Pix," reads a heading over a story in the show business weekly, Variety. The story reports that such tasty morsels as "Gina Lollobrigida in 'Bread, Love and Dreams'" and the Japanese import, "Gate of Hell," Hal Humphrey are being shown on the educational channel (WGTV) at Athens, Ga., and that commercial broadcasters consider such programming as unfair competition.

IF THIS SORT of thing is going to continue, cry the hard-shell commercial boys, then these films should be interrupted frequently to explain their cultural and educational value.

Of course, it's silly to imagine anyone dumb enough to need a commentator's explanation of Miss Lollobrigida's cultural and educational assets. The commercial broadcasters obviously are panicky at the thought of viewers' getting the opportunity to see movies on TV without 114 commercials on tooth paste, detergents and beer.

The taxpayer whose money is supporting the Athens, Ga., educational channel is being gypped by these tactics, the commercial operators charge, in further desperation, implying that educational cultural TV should stick to lectures on advanced calculus and the migration habits of the female auk.

BUT NO ONE has heard from the Georgia taxpayers yet. Maybe a majority of them not only prefer Miss Lollobrigida sans commercials, but are happy to have a few tax mills go toward perpetuating this practice. It turns into a kind of painless pay-TV.

Should this be the case, then it is easy to understand why the commercial boys are asking the state university regents, who operate the educational channel, to show mercy and leave Miss Lollobrigida to be exploited by them.

The entire Georgia episode brings to light something which too long has been overlooked, namely, that culture can be fun. Too many Americans, including commercial TV's managers, have been brainwashed into believing that anything appealing or enjoyable to the senses must be immoral, or at least suspect, and certainly not "educational."

WHEN COMMERCIAL TV producers do come to grips with a real social problem in a dramatic show, they make it so technical that it becomes more a lecture than a drama. Witness episodes of "The Defenders" and "The Nurses," which respectively dealt with abortion and venereal disease. Both episodes were produced with the deliberate and clinical air of an Army orientation film.

President Kennedy's special consultant on the arts, August Heckscher, said in his recent 80-page report that educational television ought to be encouraged as a source of quality programming.

He must realize, however, how difficult it is for these educational TV channels to create their own quality programs from the meager operating budgets limiting most of them.

THEREFORE, they have to buy some outside-produced film programs of one type or another, and why not? No law has been passed yet prohibiting ETV channels from competing with commercial TV.

Even cash donations to educational TV channels must be examined to make sure no strings are attached. The federal communications commissioners currently are checking into a $100,000 gift from NBC board chairman Robert Sarnoff to New York's WNDT.

The letter accompanying the check mentioned how impressed Sarnoff was with WNDT's conviction to stick to a policy of programs geared to a specific teaching function for the most part.

Sarnoff insisted before the FCC that he was not trying to influence WNDT's programming, but simply confirming what the president of WNDT already had said about the channel's policy.

Bomb Blows Up Auto Of Man In Union Fight

CLEVELAND (AP) — A two-stick dynamite bomb Sunday night shattered the unoccupied automobile of John M. Sertic, a rebel candidate for the Carpenter's Union District Council who had been ousted as business agent for Local 11.

The bomb exploded while the car was in a parking lot and Sertic was caucusing with delegates on his slate at a hall nearby. He had left the hall 20 minutes before the bomb exploded to get some campaign literature.

"It will take more than 20 bombs to get me to withdraw from the election," Sertic said. "I have too many people depending on me to get scared out."

Police scientific investigation unit detectives said the bomb was activated by a timing device. The blast virtually destroyed the 1960 model car and a detective said Sertic would have been killed if he had been in the car.

Police said a man in a brown suit, about 50 years old, was seen running from the lot moments before the blast. He had been near the car before the blast and warned some children to keep away, detectives reported.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Kind Deeds Should Not Be Forgotten

A story I used to like to hear my father tell never fades wholly from my memory. I heard him tell it often to different people.

Always I was alert to every word of it. It was about a precious act of kindness by a neighbor. The story went like this: "Our family on the farm were all down sick. Nobody Dr. Garry Meyers was able to care for the livestock or other members of the family. Garry was a baby in the cradle. 'Otho McCulloch, an aged neighbor, a quarter of a mile away, came in. His wife was physically unable to come. He took over. He even rocked Garry and kept him quiet."

THAT ITEM IN the story I remember most vividly. Other details I have forgotten, but there's a very vivid, emotional, tender residue in my memory of that neighbor's kindness. Fortunate for me he lived several more years so that I can remember him.

I also recall a number of trying times of sickness and sorrow from bereavement in my parents' family and my own. Grateful memories of tender kindness well up in me. At such times, those physically near seemed to have the most unselfish impulses.

You who are reading this surely have similar memories accompanied by very warm, grateful feelings in your hearts. And when you yourselves have had the opportunity to be the kind and helpful neighbor, you have felt truly glad of this opportunity.

Some of the persons most kind to you and me in trying times have been very humble folk. Some of them were not as well-dressed as we were. They may not have spoken as perfect English.

THEY MAY NOT have worn as good clothes or lived in as comfortable homes. They may not have been as well educated. Indeed, they may have been practically illiterate.

But they had great hearts; their impulses were superior; they had unselfish ways. No glamour in their lives, perhaps. They may have been very poor and humble folks. But how rich they were inside!

Let us recall the indescribable acts of kindness from these folks. They looked for no reward. They already had it in their hearts. Let's recall with our children all the unselfish, gracious kindnesses of the persons who helped us in our homes, their unselfish deeds for us and our children—the woman who came to help in cleaning, tidying up things about our home, who helped us protect and care for our children. How her heart went out to us and our children, how she cared about our worries and our sorrows!

Let us help our children appreciate these gracious and unselfish souls while they are with us and recall with our children the blessings of these really great persons after they have gone.

AND THE MORE humble their circumstances were, the more we should honor their precious and unselfish services.

Our trouble is that we tend to talk about friends who are much like ourselves in terms of material matters and possession of things the world holds in high esteem. When we set our minds and hearts on things that are most worthwhile, on things that don't perish, we shall often dwell in our family conversation on these truly great and precious persons.

There really are no maids, no servants; all persons have hearts and aspirations as precious as our own.

My bulletin, "The Very Unselfish Child," may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

54 Tossed Into Jail

In Raid On Cock Fight

LOGAN, Ohio (AP) — Hocking County Jail hadn't had so many people on the inside looking out in many a moon as it had Sunday. The jam resulted from the arrest of 54 persons at a cock-fighting arena Saturday night and the failure of most of them to get up bond quickly.

The Hocking and Fairfield county sheriffs and some deputies raided a barn on a dead-end road in Newtown Hollow near the Perry County line. They found about 35 cases of live gamecocks, four deceased fighting birds—and the 54 persons, who have been charged with taking part in an outlawed "sport."

Ohio Man Is Slain

CLEVELAND (AP) — Thomas Walls, 36, was shot and killed Sunday night in his basement apartment. Police held the victim's 30-year-old brother-in-law, who said he shot Walls when the latter attacked him with a knife.

200 At Outing Of Sunday School

About 200 attended the annual Sunday School outing of the Oakland Free Methodist Church Friday afternoon at Thompson Park. Harold Kelly, superintendent, was in charge of arrangements. The dinner committee consisted of Mrs. Margaret Atkinson, chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ward. Wilbur Richardson handled transportation.

The Rev. S. H. Estel, pastor, gave the invocation. Mrs. Dorothy Paige conducted devotions.

Winners at games and contests were Nancy Kelly, Mrs. Nancy Kelly, Mrs. Wallie Clark, Becky Gill, Lisa Fellouzis, Theresa Muschweck, Debbie Davis, Sue and John Morehead, Robin Scott, Brenda and Mike Samberson and Ethel Morehead.

Mrs. Audrey Rockenhauser and Mrs. Gladys Frye were in charge of the scrambles, races and games.

A softball game was held for the men and boys.

Fire Hits Building

CLEVELAND (AP) — A multi-alarm fire did an estimated $11,500 damage at a two-story brick commercial and apartment building at 1450-43 Addison Road Sunday. Three apartment dwellers on the second floor fled to safety.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from "Flag Waver" really got my blood to boiling. So he is in favor of shipping 5 million foreigners back to "where they came from," is he?

Well, I'm in favor of shipping 178 million foreigners back. In 1492 those foreigners started to come over here in boatloads—with their superior weapons and their big ideas. They murdered, plundered and stole this land from my ancestors who had rightful claim to it for centuries.

Of course the TV version shows it another way but any honest historian can give you the straight story of what actually happened, if you are interested. It isn't very pretty.

Since "Flag Waver" seems so adamant about sending the foreigners back, may I suggest he start the trend by being the first to leave?—CHIEF RAIN IN THE FACE.

Dear Chief: Thank you for an interesting letter and an accurate (if somewhat oversimplified) perspective of American history.

Babysitter's Lament

Dear Ann: I'm a 16-year-old girl who loves children. I do a lot of baby sitting and it's sort of a hobby with me, although I can use the extra money.

The two families where I sit must have small children who must be put to bed early. One of these homes has a broken TV which the people don't seem to care about getting repaired, so I have to sit around and look at the four walls all evening. This can be very boring for five hours.

I know you are against baby sitters' having boy friends visit when they are on the job, but what about inviting a girl friend or two? You said once "no company" but I hope you will break down and change your advice because the two women I work for follow your column and they are going to do as you say. Pretty please?—SAD SACK.

Dear Sack: I'm especially sad that with all the fascinating books that have been written you can't think of a thing to do when the TV knocks out but sit and look at the four walls. A wise philosopher once said that the surest test of a person is what he does when he has nothing to do. How do you stack up?

Wedding Donors

Dear Ann: A person rather close to me is planning an elaborate wedding for her daughter. The woman is not wealthy but she is not destitute either. This girl is her only child.

The mother is telephoning friends and relatives and asking them to bring refreshments for the wedding buffet. My assignment is 50 finger sandwiches—chicken preferred. My sister has been asked to bring a large cake—angel food preferred.

The more I think about this cheap trick the madder I get. It seems to me that people ought to put on the kind of wedding they can afford and not take advantage of their friends this way. What is your opinion?—IRKED.

Dear Irked: If you don't want to bring refreshments to the wedding, why don't you say so?

Some people offer to bring refreshments to affairs of this kind but putting the arm on friends and relatives is a pretty brassy maneuver.

Confidentially

TO HELP NEEDED URGENTLY: This is not a police problem but a medical problem. Call a doctor—not a cop.

TO IS IT WORTH IT?: Edison said genius is 1 per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration. Of course it's worth it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

10 Mishaps Listed

6 Suffer Injury In Area Crashes

Six persons, including an East Liverpool area woman, were injured as a result of three of the 10 area accidents investigated over the weekend by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Three were hurt in a two-car collision on County Road 426 a half mile west of Route 7, near Clarkson, Sunday at 1:25 a. m.

Officers said the crash involved cars driven by Hilda Mae Smith, 48, of East Liverpool R. D. 1, Echo Dell Trailer Court, and Alva C. Collins, 26, of Rogers R. D. 1.

THE WOMAN was headed east when Collins, coming from the opposite direction, swerved left of center and struck her car. She suffered abrasions of the left arm and contusions of the right knee. A passenger in her car, Harley McCune, 52, of New Cumberland R. D. 1, suffered contusions and lacerations of the forehead and contusions of the neck.

Collins suffered a possible arm injury. All were treated at City Hospital. Collins was arrested for reckless operation.

Paul Funk, 18, of Salem is in "fairly good" condition today at Salem City Hospital with lacerations of the face and a possible head injury suffered in a one car crash on Township Road 766 a mile north of Route 14 near Salem Saturday midnight.

FUNK was headed north and ran off the left side of the highway and hit a culvert, officers said. Full details of the accident are not known as the officers have not been able to question Funk.

A Cleveland woman was injured seriously when her car crashed into a house on County Road 400 a mile east of the Stark County line near Minerva Sunday at 11:20 p. m.

The car, driven by Verdel Green, 36, of Cleveland, slammed into the side of a home owned by Richard Brown of Homewood.

OFFICERS said she was headed east when she lost control, went off the right side of the highway, crossed back and went off the left side before slamming into the house.

Officers said a wall of the house was knocked out. A chair, couch, table and television set inside were damaged.

The woman suffered fractures of the vertebrae and a passenger, Floyd Walden, 37, of Cleveland, suffered lacerations of the forehead. Both are at Alliance City Hospital.

Robert Keeper, 52, of R. D. 2 escaped injury when his car rolled over on Route 170 a mile north of Route 30 Sunday at 3:30 a. m. He was headed north when he ran off the left side of the then overturned, officers said. Keeper was cited for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

ROBERT ROSA, 30, of Louisville reported his car was struck by another which failed to stop Sunday at 6:30 p. m. on Route 172 about four and a half miles east of Route 9 near New Garden.

Rosa told officers the other car came off a side road and rammed him. It then continued on. Rosa's car was heavily damaged, officers said.

A car driven by Donald Lee Burson, 19, of Rogers R. D. 1 was damaged when it struck a wire fence along Township Road 923 a mile and a half south of Route 559 near East Fairfield Sunday at 8:15 p. m.

BURSON dropped off the right side of the highway just as another car passed from the opposite direction. It was driven by Verna Kunkle, 34, also of Rogers R. D. 1. Burson lost control, crossed to the left side and rammed the fence.

David Lee Russell, 17, of 502 13th St., Wellsville, was cited for speeding in excess of road conditions after a one-car crash on the Wells Hollow Rd. a mile north of Wellsville Saturday at 8:45 p. m.

Russell, headed south, failed to negotiate a curve, went off the left side and hit an embankment, the patrol reported.

JACK M. Morrell, 26, of 1917 Clark Ave., Wellsville, escaped injury when his car hit a tree along County Road 12 about 50 feet east of the Jefferson County line Saturday at 10:30 p. m.

He was headed northeast, lost control on a curve and hit the tree off the left side of the road. Morrell was cited for driving left of center.

In a crash Sunday at 3 a. m. on the same road about 30 feet from the Jefferson line, cars driven by Cecil Thrasher Jr., 26, of Wellsville R. D. 1 and Bobby N. Wright of Kensington were damaged.

Thrasher had stopped in the center of the highway. He was sideswiped by Wright, who was coming in the opposite direction. Thrasher was arrested for stopping on the highway and Wright was cited for driving an unsafe vehicle.

The patrol investigated a total of 14 accidents over the weekend.

Doggone, It Stops

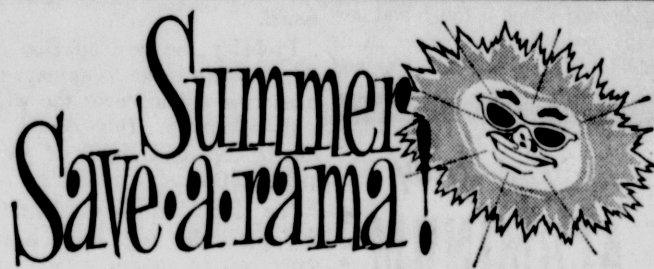

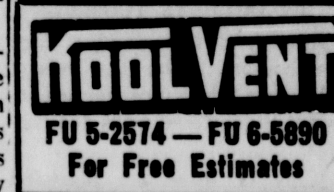

Ferocious Canines

GRiffin, Ga. (AP) — A new push-button spray produced by a local firm is stopping ferocious dogs in their tracks with no lingering ill effects.

The product is composed of oleoresin capsicum, the most active ingredient of cayenne pepper, in a base of light mineral oil. It is squirted in a stream that reaches 15 feet and creates a temporary burning sensation in the eyes, nostrils or mouth.

Discovered by two professors at the University of Georgia, the repellent has been recommended for anyone coming in contact with vicious dogs—postmen included.

The Key Issues For '64

Rival Party Leaders Offer Their Views

Even now, with the smoke of battle months away, Republican and Democratic party leaders are doing up their campaigns for the 1964 presidential election. Just what do they think the issues will be? Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey and Republican National Chairman William E. Miller gave their views in an exclusive interview.

By JACK BELL and ERNEST B. VACCARO WASHINGTON (AP) — Already the rival political strategists are staking out the battlefield for the 1964 presidential campaign and zeroing in on what they expect to be the big targets. What do they figure the issues will be a year hence?

Foreign policy "preempts every issue," Republican National Chairman William E. Miller declares. "The chief issue is going to be how well did President Kennedy run the affairs of this country," says Miller's opposite number, Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey.

In a joint interview, both party leaders agreed that civil rights legislation should be considered by Congress on a bipartisan basis.

Miller, however, did express reservations about the chief provision of the President's civil rights package, a proposal for enforcement of desegregation of private firms serving the public.

Here are some of the other questions and the party leaders' answers in the interview:

Q. What do the Republicans propose doing about Cuba?

Miller: I can think of many things which might be done. Perhaps at this stage of the game we should refuse to allow ports of entry to any ship carrying any material to Cuba.

I think we ought to eliminate all foreign aid to any South American country or any Latin American country doing business with Castro. We might well consider recognizing a government-in-exile. We might consider restraining the use of the Panama Canal to ships carrying cargo to Cuba.

Q. Let us have an observation from Chairman Bailey on that. Bailey: The Republicans have a bad habit of succumbing to reckless partisanship in the area of foreign policy when they are out of power. A good many of them have done just that in the case of Cuba. In my opinion, a big majority of the American people know that the President has given them the facts about Cuba, and they are pleased the way he handled the crisis last fall. I do not think that Cuba should be a political issue in '64 and I do not think it will be.

Q. Mr. Bailey, what impact do you expect the current turmoil over civil rights to have on the '64 presidential campaign and the congressional elections?

Bailey: Obviously, civil rights will have some impact on the 1964 campaign. However, I believe the President is trying to work out with the Republican leadership a bipartisan approach to this social change that this country's going through, and I think it's a little too early to say exactly what effect this is going to have in '64.

Q. Chairman Miller, do you think the Republicans will furnish bipartisan cooperation behind civil rights legislation or that it could be removed from the campaign?

Miller: I think it ought to be a bipartisan issue. I think it's a moral issue. I don't think it's a political issue. But it's a little difficult to keep out of the political arena.

Q. Do you think there might be some way in which Sen. Dirksen might compromise this issue?

Miller: I do, I do, I do, I do, I do.

Q. What's your view on this, Mr. Bailey?

Bailey: As chairman of the Democratic National Committee, I don't want to get into any partisan debate on this at this time.

Q. Chairman Miller, has Governor Rockefeller's remarriage damaged his party standing to such an extent that you believe the contest for the Republican presidential nomination is now wide open?

Miller: I think the fight for the nomination was always wide open. However, I must say that at this stage of the game, his remarriage has hurt him.

Q. Former President Truman said the other day that the Democrats can win without the South. Are you ready to write off the South in 1964?

Bailey: Absolutely not. There is no intention by anybody to write off the South. We carried North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas and Texas last time. I feel quite positive that when the election comes in 1964 President Kennedy will do as well if not better in the South than in 1960.

Attend Synod Session

LISBON —The Rev. Paul T. Gerrard of the First Presbyterian Church and Elder Ross Fox, commissioners of the Mahoning Presbytery, attended the meeting of the Ohio Synod of the Presbyterian Church last week at Muskingum College in New Concord. Mrs. Gregg Ramsey and Mrs. Raney McCullough, delegates from the Women's Association of the church, attended the 42nd annual meeting of the Women's Synodical Society, also held at the college.

Long fished profitably in the Pacific, tuna is an almost untapped resource in Atlantic waters.

Boys Nabbed In Auto Theft

Two city teen-agers are scheduled for a hearing Monday at 1 p. m. in Juvenile Court in Lisbon after admitting a theft of an East Liverpool woman's car early Saturday and wrecking it about five minutes later in a crash in Chester which also demolished a parked car and caused extensive damage to a parked station wagon.

A 15-year-old boy from E. 8th St. and his 16-year-old companion from W. Center Ln. admitted the theft to Capt. Robert H. Pyle after being picked up for questioning early Saturday afternoon.

The two were turned over to Juvenile Officer James Miller, who released them in custody of their parents pending the Juvenile Court hearing. The 15-year-old was driver of the auto, Capt. Pyle said.

The 15-year-old originally was picked up by Acting Police Chief Clarence Lennens after the crash and questioned and released.

Lennens said the youth was picked up on 2nd St. a few minutes after the crash on Virginia Ave. and 1st St. from which he and his companion fled on foot.

The Chester chief notified Capt. Pyle, who later picked up the boy again for questioning during which he implicated his companion.

The boys are accused of taking the 1958 four-door sedan owned by Dorothy M. Adams, 509 Elm St. Capt. Pyle said the two drove down College St. and across the Chester bridge, finally demolishing the car after making a left turn from 1st St. onto Virginia Ave.

The crash demolished the Adams' auto and a parked 1956 sedan owned by Clyde E. Snow of Chester R. D. 1. The impact shoved the Snow car into the parked 1959 station wagon of Edward W. Walker of Rochester, Mich., causing an estimated $400 damage.

The two city youths appeared this morning before Hancock Juvenile Officer John Grossi for curfew violation but a decision was delayed pending disposition of the theft case here, Chief Lennens said.

Conference Set On Street Crews

Spokesmen for Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees will confer tonight at 7 in Council chambers at City Hall with Council's finance committee on a financial crisis in street department funds which may result in a cutback of service or layoff of employees by July 1.

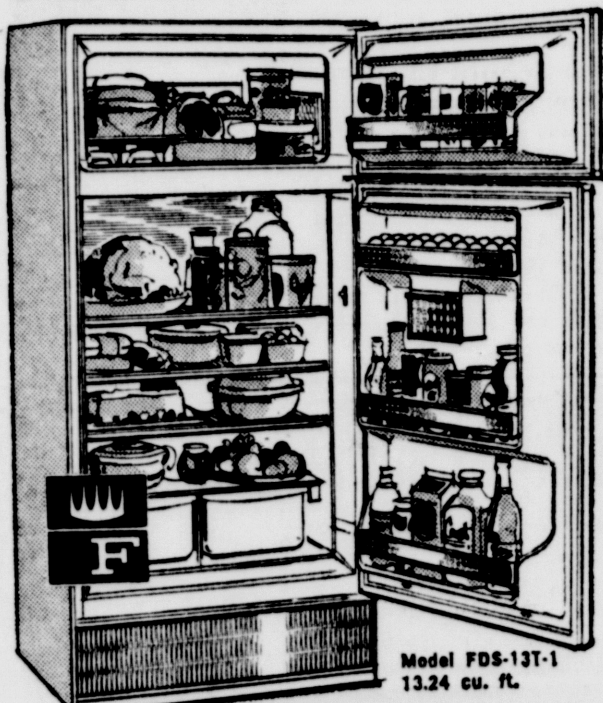

Officers of the local union and John Trimboli of Youngstown, district representative of the union, will meet with Councilmen George E. Willshaw, Robert W. Sample Jr. and Edward Massey to discuss the problem.

The union decided to seek the meeting with the finance committee after meeting with Safety Service Director Robert Owen and Street Supt. W. M. Laughlin on June 14.

The union officers said the regular meeting will be held at 8 p. m. at Carpenter's Hall.

Sheetrock Suggested If Plaster's Cracked

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Throughout this country there are thousands upon thousands of old houses which are finished inside with plastered walls and ceilings.

Many of these are plastered over wood lath, usually made of applewood which is tough and normally outlasts the plaster it is holding. Because of old age and the gradual shrinking of the house frame, as well as probably foundation trouble, scores of these oldtimers suffer from cracked walls and ceilings.

Patching is difficult and usually obvious, so other means of obtaining smooth surfaces must be found.

Probably the best solution for this problem is not to attempt replastering but to cover the walls with sheetrock. This comes in four-by-eight-foot sheets of varying thicknesses.

The 1/2-inch size is the best for this particular use, since it usually can be applied without the necessity of removing moldings or baseboards. When properly spackled and taped, sheetrock can be painted or papered without difficulty and will present a smooth even surface.

Ceilings are a bit more difficult because the plaster is more apt to break away progressively around any really bad areas that one is working on. In really badly cracked ceilings and excellent job can be had by installing false beams, with sheetrock set in between them.

For those who care to spend a little more money, knotty pine, oak, mahogany and walnut panels are available for recovering plastered walls. These are available in various sized panels and present a rich and highly decorative surface.

Sump Pump Can Solve Problem In Basement

If you plan to buy a new house in the next few years, it may pay you to learn about sump pumps.

A recent survey of builders indicates that more than 60 per cent of the houses to be built in the next five years will have basements. This can mean unexpected problems for the unprepared.

One of these problems, says the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, is flooding. Excess water can get into even the most soundly constructed homes, the bureau points out. It comes from flash floods, broken water mains, seepage during heavy rains and even from water-using appliances.

Many new homes are built with overhead sewers. This means that the floor of the basement is below the level of the sewer and that excess water cannot be drained from the basement floor by gravity.

If excess water cannot be drained by gravity to a sewer or other low point, the bureau warns, costly property damage and inconvenience can result. This is especially true when heating plants and electrical appliances are installed there.

But whatever the source of the flooding water, says the bureau, an experienced plumbing contractor can provide the proper sump pump drainage system to eliminate the problem.

The contractor will construct a pit called a sump and install a pump for automatically discharging the excess water into a sewer, dry well or into a drain away from the house.

Any reliable plumbing contractor can explain the differences in pumps and systems and the way they work for the home owner's benefit.

Sharp Drop Due In July's Steel Output

CLEVELAND (AP) — A sharp curtailment in steel production is expected in July, but shipments will be better than average, the magazine Steel said today.

The metalworking weekly pointed out that the removal of a strike threat won't have much effect on next month's shipments of finished steel because most of the July tonnage has been processed to a point where it cannot be deferred. It said the shipments will drop no more than 15 per cent.

"In steelmaking, it will be a different story," the magazine added. "Operations are already trending downward. They'll decline this week for the fifth consecutive time. Production will be less than 2.4 million ingot tons—Steel's estimate of industry output last week. Look for a 25 per cent drop in production next month. July's output will be about eight million ingot tons vs. an estimated 10.4 million tons in June."

Steel mill operations last week were at the rate of 78.5 per cent of unofficial capacity, the lowest since the end of March, the publication said.

Steel production will total about 59.3 million tons during the first six months this year, compared with 54,098,179 tons in the corresponding period of 1962, the trade journal said.

Steel bookings and order backlogs are both dropping, but the July downward trend was inevitable, Steel said.

Steel's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting grade steelmaking scrap dropped 33 cents last week to $25.50 a gross ton, the lowest since November.

In 3 States At Once Pittsburgh Boys Utilize Barge For Radio Contest

Demonstrating a flair for the unusual that is typical of the college set, a group of Pittsburgh amateur radio operators arranged for a unique site in the area to participate in the annual Field Day of the American Radio Relay League over the weekend.

The enterprising University of Pittsburgh students broadcast with their "ham" radios from a barge anchored in the Ohio River in such a position that the site afforded them an opportunity to be in three states at the same time.

Marked by large Army surplus weather balloons soaring 250 feet in the air and tall antennas, the site was about eight feet off the Ohio shoreline near the National Drawn Works of Crucible Steel Co., where the borders of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania meet to form the Tri-State area.

In order to broadcast from the exact location that would give them claim to probably the most unusual site among the U. S. and Canadian amateurs participating, the students got pinpoint directions from the office of George Bloomgren, city engineer.

Bill Crowley, a sophomore English major, and Bob Czepl, a junior in electrical engineering, said the barge was donated for the occasion by the Dravo Corp., and they received permission from Crucible and other firms for access to the site. The Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania provided a 10,000-watt generator as a source of power.

In addition to their claim of the most unusual broadcasting location, the nine students on the "caper" also boasted of using the "world's largest antennas."

Speaking facetiously, they explained that their antennas were connected by ground wires to the Ohio River, and said it eventually connects with every body of water on the earth.

Purpose of the event was to emphasize the value of amateur radio operators in the event of national emergencies or disaster. Those participating packed their equipment and headed for remote areas and sent signals all over the world.

The Pitt students, who arrived by train, car and plane from widely separated areas for the Field Day, operated three complete stations on the barge, broadcasting as "K3RIA."

They attracted the attention of small craft owners on the river during the event. Small walkie-talkies were used for communication between the students during the exercise.

They are members of the Pitt Amateur Radio Association.

Tips Are Offered On Antique Glaze

Question: We have some white enameled furniture which we'd like to antique.

I understand that a good glaze can be made by mixing turpentine with oil color and varnish. Can you tell me the correct proportions? Also, can you tell me how to do the stippling?

Answer: You can make an antique glaze with 3 tablespoons of clear varnish and one and a-half teaspoons of oil color.

However, do not blend in the varnish until the turpentine and oil color have been mixed thoroughly. The usual oil color for white enamel is raw umber, which produces a kind of ivory finish. If you wish a darker hue, use burnt umber.

The glaze can be applied either with a brush or spray. As soon as it is applied — between 30 seconds and a minute and a half — wipe it with a clean, lintless cloth, using a circular motion. The stippling follows immediately, using a small, dry brush.

Although some antique finishes are left that way, they are best preserved by applying two coats of clear varnish after the glaze has dried.

Lisbon's Mayor Fines 3 Drivers

LISBON—Three motorists were fined a total of $60 and costs Sunday by Mayor Dean Stockman on citations for traffic violations issued by village police and the State Highway Patrol.

John Leroy Hinchliffe, 22, of R. D. 2, was fined $25 and costs after he pleaded guilty to reckless operation. He was cited after his car struck a tree, mail box and a highway marker on N. Market St. early Saturday morning.

Irene Evangeline Tallman, 23, of 165 E. Main St., Salineville, paid $25 and costs for driving without a driver's license.

James Fred House, 23, of 165 E. Main St., was fined $10 and costs for a defective muffler.

Hinchliffe and Tallman were cited by village police and House by the State Patrol.

GOP Selects Frisco; Democrats Set To Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats get down to the business today of picking a site for their 1964 presidential nominating convention with Chicago reported a slight favorite among six bidding cities.

The Republican National Committee's choice of San Francisco for its convention brought television-radio network pressure to pick the same city for the Democratic meeting. This would avoid a transfer of heavy broadcast equipment.

There were reports that, all things considered, President Kennedy would prefer to receive his second nomination in the Middle West, where Republicans hope to marshal a substantial portion of their efforts to defeat him for reelection.

The site committee, however, has other financially attractive offers from Atlantic City, N.J., Baltimore, Detroit, Miami Beach, Miami and Philadelphia.

The full national committee meets Tuesday to act on the recommendation of the site committee and another committee which meets today to recommend the allocation of convention delegates.

The Republicans got guarantees of $650,000 in cash, some free hotel rooms for convention officials, programs and other benefits for agreeing to meet in San Francisco. Sessions will be held in the Cow Palace, where Dwight D. Eisenhower was nominated for a second term.

The selection of San Francisco was attributed in part to the feeling among party leaders that local publicity would gain early identification for their candidate with the voters in a state Kennedy lost by a narrow margin in 1960.

The July 13 opening date signaled Republican intentions to get their campaign under way early. Democrats are not expected to convene until mid-August.

Kennedy already has picked Gov. Edmund G. Brown to run his California campaign. Last year Brown won re-election in a battle with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who had carried California in the 1960 presidential contest.

The Republicans charted a four-day meeting, with the possibility of a fifth, if the fight over their top nominee becomes a long drawn out affair.

The Democrats probably will settle for a three-day show.

Weirton Resident Gets VFW Post

MORGANTOWN — West Virginia Veterans of Foreign Wars closed their annual four-day convention here Sunday after electing Leo C. Shuck of Keyser department commander for the coming year.

Other new officers are: John Frazier of Morgantown, senior vice commander; Ralph Honaker of Huntington, junior vice commander; Ralph Stump of Weirton, quartermaster adjutant (treasurer).

The VFW Auxiliary elected these new state officers: Mrs. Geraldine Joy of Fairmont, president; Mrs. Minnie Fawcett of Grafton, senior vice president; Mrs. Klee Thorn of Martinsburg, junior vice president, and Mrs. Marjorie Sidebottom of Clarksburg, secretary-treasurer.

Street Light System's Bidding Slated July 2

The last formality before installation of a new system of fluorescent lighting in the downtown business district, Safety - Service Director Robert Owen will open bids at his office at noon Tuesday, July 2.

Although the Ohio Power Co. is the only concern which could submit an offer, state law requires the city to go through the formality of calling for sealed bids.

Legislative work leading to the system has been under way approximately a year. The project was backed by the East Liverpool Merchants Association, which circulated a petition among owners of downtown business property. The property-owners agreed to pay an additional assessment representing the difference in cost between the present system and the new lighting arrangement.

Benwood Man Killed In Car-Truck Crash

By The Associated Press

West Virginia's traffic death toll climbed to 167 over the weekend with two fatal accidents.

Howard L. Hillberry, 48, of Benwood was killed Sunday when his car slammed head-on into a truck on W. Va. 2 at Glen Dale, in Marshall County.

The driver of the truck, John Henthorne, 27, of Wellsburg, suffered minor injuries.

James E. Tilley, 23, of Hatcher, Wyoming County, was killed late Friday night when a car in which he was riding spun out of control and crashed on W. Va. 16 a few miles south of Pineville.

The driver of the car, Kenneth Hawks, 20, of Grundy, Va., was found guilty Saturday of involuntary manslaughter. He was fined $500 and sentenced to a year in jail.

$2 Million Price Seen In Corporation's Sale

The purchase price of the assets of the New Castle Refractories Co. amounts to $2,180,000 in cash and stock. The Wall Street Journal has reported.

Announcement of the sale price came from the Joseph Dixon Crucible Co. of Jersey City, N. J., which plans to buy the New Castle corporation after approval by Crucible stockholders.

Sale terms call for a cash payment of $1,100,000 and 40,000 Crucible shares valued for the acquisition at $27 per share.

Refractories has plants in Newell, New Castle and New Galilee, Pa., and Massillon and Zoar, Ohio.

Equality And Economy Seen In Lumber Plan

WASHINGTON — Here's good news for prospective home buyers: Builders, lenders and lumbermen are mounting a concerted drive to cut costs and boost the quality of new-home construction.

Keystone of the cost-reduction, quality-improvement campaign — a project backed by the National Association of Home Builders, National Lumber Manufacturers Association and construction experts of the U. S. Savings and Loan League — is a new system of lumber sizes.

The new size standards, now before the Commerce Department for final approval, have been recommended by the American Lumber Standards Committee, a government-industry group representing producers, distributors and major users of forest products.

Stripped of technicalities, the new system provides for "green" and "dry" lumber to be surfaced to different sizes at the mill so that, as nearly as possible, they will be the same size after application in residential and other classes of construction.

Just the opposite occurs today. "Green" lumber (generally, that which has a moisture content of 30 per cent or more) and "dry" lumber (pieces with a moisture content of 19 per cent or less) are surfaced to the same dimensions at the mill; consequently, because the "green" lumber shrinks in transit or shortly after being nailed in place, the two end up different sizes by the time they see service as studs, rafters, joists or other supporting members.

Architect John I. Schmidt, construction specialist of the U. S. Savings and Loan League, has urged endorsement of the new dry sizes by that organization's more than 5,000 member institutions, responsible for about 95 per cent of the total assets of savings and loan associations in this country and nearly half of the home mortgages extended annually.

Writing in the June issue of the League's monthly magazine, Savings and Loan News, Schmidt hailed the new size system as "a step toward better quality in lumber and a better product to the home buyer at less cost." Moreover, he declared:

"Every mortgage lender should be informed about this new size standard and the reasons for it, and should be ready to encourage acceptance of the new standard locally."

Schmidt pointed out that the new sizes will result in an immediate savings to the producer of about 7 per cent of his raw material—the forests.

"Shipping costs will become less because dry lumber is lighter and more can be loaded on a freight car. The total savings can mean as much as $100 million a year, according to reliable estimates."

One of the most important effects of the new sizes, commented the National Association of Home Builders in a recent issue of its weekly newspaper, NAHB Washington Scope, will be "fewer problems related to shrinkage," the harbinger of plaster cracking, nailpops in drywall, splitting of improperly nailed siding, cracks in woodwork, sticking doors and similar problems.

Moreover, NAHB noted, the new dry sizes will be as strong or stronger than lumber manufactured to the present government-industry standards for unseasoned stock.

This is explained by the fact that the new dry sizes will be in the case of a 2" x 8" floor joist, for example — only slightly thinner but a full quarter-inch deeper than the green size after seasoning.

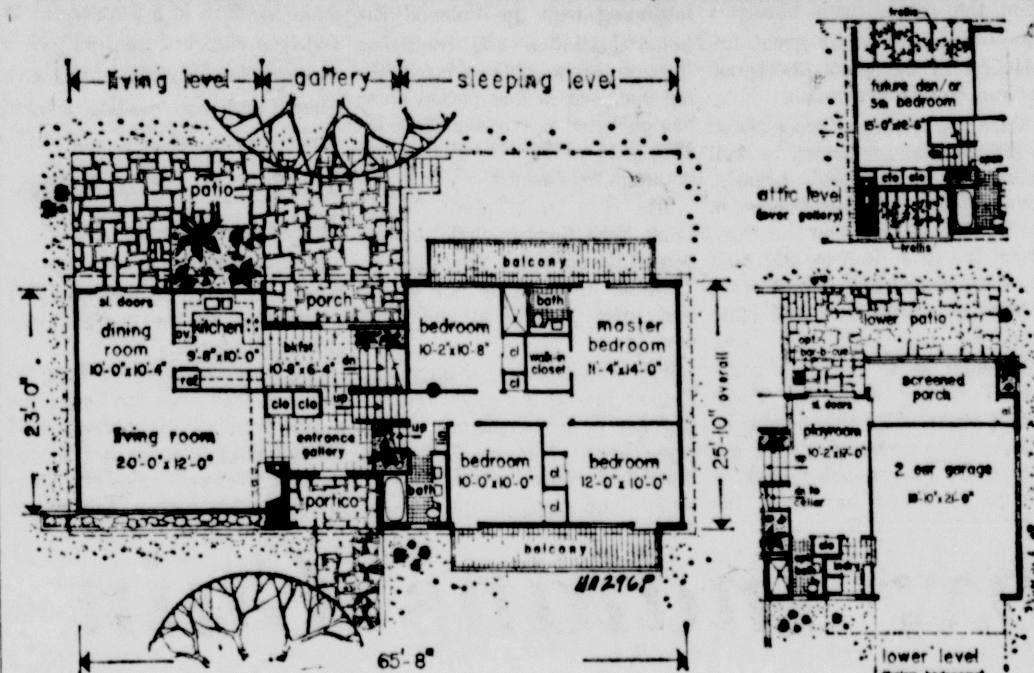

According to the government's own authority on the characteristics of wood, the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory, depth has much more to do with strength and stiffness than does thickness.

Other advantages of the new system, as pointed out by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association:

The new standards are expected to provide the architect and builder with greater assurance of receiving a quality product whether dry or green lumber is specified.

With specific sizes for seasoned and unseasoned lumber, inspection and enforcement of size standards will be improved.

A proposed new "engineered" size for sheathing and paneling boards would cut production and shipping costs, make these items easier to handle and install, and facilitate the use of rapid-nailing power equipment.

TRAFFIC CONTROL. Many split-level homes suffer from bad traffic circulation. Often the living room serves as a highway for people going from one room to another. This split level, however, features a central gallery that aids good circulation. With its two patios, two porches and a balcony, it is also admirably adapted to outdoor living. The architect is Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N. Y., and the plan is HA 286P.

Up In Arms!

Women Tire Of The Chores

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

It's time to put the men back at the plow, and turn in your work permits, ladies.

A frustrating aspect of a home is that there are chores. But fewer and fewer men are doing them, as more and more women take on man-sized jobs — painting, plastering, building, plowing.

Modern machinery that makes these tasks easier has put women in overalls and on tractors as they thrived on compliments.

But flattery has gotten her no place as she labors in the sun or a damp cellar, while the man of the house is fishing, golfing or lounging in the hammock.

How to get the man back to the workbench?

You can take either a positive or negative approach. Confront him with situations that can be solved only by his manly skill or affront his intelligence so that it hurts.

Wash those logarithms right out of your head and forget you ever knew how to compute the lumber needed for that screened-in porch. Take your bows on the strawberry mousse.

Try to maintain his growing suspicions that you are not as bright as he thought you were. Dangerous, maybe. Could be the house will blow up, if he allows you to continue to repair the water pump.

When the time comes to remove the wallpaper at the stairwell, balance the ladder precariously, and leave it there teetering, until he returns from work. Look hurt when he asks if you've lost your mind.

And when you're out on the mower-tractor-plow that he generously bought you for your birthday, mow down a patch of the asparagus bed or the bee balm he's saving for his favorite birds. It should make a quick incision, worth the pocketbook loss.

When he's invited the boss for dinner, neglect the front lawn. He may mow it in self-defense, especially when you tell him that it's the lawn or the dinner as far as you are concerned.

A pile of leaves left in the yard can cut him to the quick.

but he'll move them before his guest arrives.

You can win a lot of points by becoming a sloppy painter, splashing it on fishing rods, golf clubs, tennis rackets, until he finally says, "Look, I'll do all the painting around here."

Wait until he's rented the floor scraper for the weekend to tell him that your burrito is kicking up. He'll either take over or see the money go down the drain.

Dizzy spells come in handy when it's time to wash the windows.

When the faucet leaks, take it apart and then tell him you don't know how to put it back.

Give him the king-size superlatives when he does a job, and reward him with an unforgettable meal, adding "that it's so nice to have time to whip up something good."

Any subterfuge you may use in accomplishing Project: Man-at-work is permitted. Doctors advise that men need more exercise, and it should be the duty of every good housewife to provide it. Even if she must create the situations that will encourage him to leave his favorite chair.

Buyers Are Attracted By Firm Conditioning

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

We called attention last year to an experiment being conducted by a builder to determine whether buyers would be willing to pay a little more to get extra sound conditioning in their homes.

The idea grew out of a round-table conference of builders, architects and other specialists under the guidance of an industry publication, House and Home.

As a result of scores of suggestions at the conference on ways and means of making homes more quiet, the builder decided to incorporate many of the suggestions into a standard home already priced at $19,300.

He offered the sound-conditioning features as an optional package at an added cost of $500. To make the test fair, he spent no more on advertising the quiet house than he ordinarily spent on the standard model, although the sound-conditioning theme was featured in the ads.

The result has been more than just interesting. Nearly half of all buyers during the first few months of 1963 decided to pay the extra $500 for a house in which sound would be kept under a fair degree of control.

This particular Dallas, Tex., builder, as well as many others throughout the country, are now convinced that there is a trend in the direction of noise control in one-family homes, just as there has been in office and industrial buildings in recent years.

What makes a house quiet? The list is almost endless, embracing three principal categories: the subduing of noise at the source, the deadening of noise within a specific area and the reduction of noise transmission from one area to another.

The subduing of noise at the source includes such things as the cushioning of machines that vibrate, no-slam gasketing for passage doors, silent light switches, carpeting, slower-turning circulation fans in the furnace and quieter dishwasher, garbage disposals, etc.

The use of the sound-absorbent material around the washer and dryer area and moisture-resistant, acoustical ceiling tile in the kitchen and bathroom are among the items which deaden noise within a specific section of the house.

Noise transmission from one area to another is kept in check with double-stud walls separated by insulation, acoustical doors and the installation of electrical boxes in separate locations rather than back-to-back.

It had been pointed out by experts at the roundtable conference that a considerable amount of noise passed from room to room where electrical boxes were installed back-to-back.

Wherever sound conditioning is important, first-class workmanship is important, since the smallest hole or crack can nullify the best sound barrier. Street noises will continue to be a problem during periods of the year when the windows must be kept open and there is no air conditioning.

Father's Fast Action Saves Boy In Water

CINCINNATI (AP)—His father's quick action was credited with saving the life of a 3-year-old Delhi Hills area boy Sunday.

Searchers found David Holbrook in three feet of water in the Whitewater River near Miamitown. His father, Arnold, 47, one of the searchers, immediately applied artificial respiration and kept it up until the boy could be taken to a hospital. There the lad was treated and released.

Historic Church Brings President To Frankfurt

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A red sandstone church, built in unusual circular form and located in downtown Frankfurt, was a special historical significance for Germans.

It is the St. Paul's church and, along with Frankfurt's convenient central location, is one of the main reasons why President Kennedy is stopping off at this fifth largest city of West Germany Tuesday.

The neo-classical St. Paul's church, or Paulskirche as it is known to Germans, was built in the early 19th century and seems architecturally insignificant when compared with Europe's inspiring cathedrals.

But the Paulskirche has the kind of tradition that suits Kennedy and provides an appropriate setting for his major speech in Germany.

It was here that the German states held a national assembly in 1848 in an attempt to unify the country under a liberal constitution. The effort failed, but the church remained a symbol of German liberal nationalism.

Like more than a third of all Frankfurt buildings, it was destroyed in World War II. Soon after the war, money was collected for its reconstruction as a congress hall and memorial to mark the 100th anniversary of the original Paulskirche assembly.

To the American visitor the city still is very German, with outdoor cafes, beer and sausage stands, fountains and flower pots on busy squares.

Frankfurt is the home of 680,000 persons and, excluding West Berlin, is West Germany's fifth largest city, after Hamburg, Munich, Cologne and Essen. It is the country's chief banking center, continuing in the tradition of the famous banking family of Rothschild.

Wormy Chestnut Use Is Discussed

Question: I have been looking over different kinds of plywood paneling for a den in an old house we have just bought.

One lumber dealer has recommended a new kind of prefinished paneling made from a wood which he calls wormy chestnut. It looks pretty interesting, but I never heard of this wood and wonder whether it will hold up. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: The distinctive markings of wormy chestnut are just what they seem to be: holes and other openings made by a worm-like parasite.

The American chestnut tree was hit by a blight in the early 1900s that all but killed off the entire species. The parasite that caused the trouble was traced to a fungus creature from Asia, resulting in more stringent regulations to prevent the spread of diseases from overseas invaders.

In recent years, designers have been making considerable use of so-called "distress" woods, those in which imperfections of one sort or another have been emphasized rather than hidden. Wormy chestnut thus came into its own.

It is particularly suitable for rooms where informality and distinctiveness are desirable. It will hold up as well as other woods. The wormhole markings will not get any larger, if that's what has been causing you concern.

Boros Grabs 2nd Open Title

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Julius (Moose) Boros, the oldest man ever to win the National Open golf tournament, is a hulking, plodding, pleasant fellow who rarely shows emotion but lifts a disdainful eyebrow when anyone mentions the Big Three.

"I felt a little reluctant to accept that big check," Boros quipped with $16,000 in his baggy pants after a 1-under par 70 Sunday had swept him to his second Open title in a three-way playoff with ailing Arnold Palmer and young Jack Cupit.

"I thought it was already in the bank for one of the Big Three," Boros wouldn't dwell on the subject but it was plain he shared the feeling of many professionals that the public has been led unjustly to believe that golf starts and stops these days with Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player. The fact that he whipped the mighty Palmer by six shots—even though Arnold was off his feed, said he felt lousy and rushed away from the course with hardly a word—obviously was a great satisfaction to the 6-foot, 200-pound veteran from Connecticut.

Since Boros turned professional in 1947, he has performed as well as anyone in America's premier championship with nine finishes in the top 10. He has won the Open twice, the first time in 1952, and has been second twice, third once, fourth twice, fifth once and ninth once.

Although at 43 he is 10 years older than any of the Big Three and 20 years older than Nicklaus, who failed to make the 36-hole cut here while Player ended back in the pack, Boros has been the finest player on the PGA tour in the last two months. He has won three championships since May 12, beginning with the Colonial National Invitation and continuing through the Buick Open before the big one, and in that period alone has pocketed nearly $45,000 of his 1963 total of $59,680. His career earnings top $300,000.

"He is a great player," said Cupit, who finished three strokes behind Boros with a 2-over-par 73. "I think he rates as one of the best three players in golf right now."

With Cupit away shakily and Palmer far off his game and finally out of it completely with a triple bogey 7 at the 11th hole, Boros took control with birdies after brilliant close-in iron shots on the fourth and fifth holes. He ran in a 10-foot uphill curling putt for another birdie at the ninth to make the turn in a 2-under-par 33 and then clinched matters with a 10-footer for a birdie at the 17th when Cupit was making a mild challenge.

Mickey Wright Wins Western Open Title

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Mickey Wright is going fishing—and her companions on the pro golf tour can hardly wait.

"I'll play this week on Long Island and then head for Texas and a little fishing," Miss Wright said Sunday after winning her second straight Women's Western Open Championship with a 4-under-par 292 in the 72-hole classic at the Maple Bluff Country Club.

Miss Wright, the top money winner since 1961, pocketed $1,200 boosting her earnings for the year to $12,332. She has won 7 of the 11 tournaments she has played this season.

Miss Wright fired a 4-over-par 78 and trailed by six strokes after the first round. Then she put together successive rounds of 70, 71 and 73 as the rest of the field of more than 100 amateurs and pros wilted on the narrow, tricky course.

Par was equalled or bettered only six times during the four-day competition. Miss Wright did it three times, and runner-up Kathy Whitworth, Marilyn Smith and Marlene Bauer Hagee once each.

Miss Whitworth carded a final round 75 for a 301 total and second money of $950. Miss Smith, the leader after the first two rounds, had a closing 76 which gave her a total of 303 and $750 for third place.

Bouton 4-Hits Bosox; Indians Gain Split

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
From so-so finisher to super starter-finisher in six weeks—that's the success story of Jim Bouton.

The hefty youngster wrote another winning chapter Sunday in the New York Yankees' 8-0 romp over the Boston Red Sox, firing a four-hitter that helped the Bombers edge a bit further in front in the American League race.

For Bouton, a routine reliever until pressed into the starting rotation six weeks ago, it was victory No. 10. He has nailed eight of those in his 10 starts and has lost just once since his bullpen days—by a 10-0 score.

For the Yanks, it was the third straight victory after an opening game loss in the set at Boston and it pushed the once-surgingly Red Sox five lengths off the pace. Next on the Yankees' agenda is a four-game stand at Chicago starting tonight against the second-place White Sox, who slipped two games behind Sunday in a split with Cleveland.

Pete Ward's two-run single in the eighth inning gave Chicago a 2-1 decision over the Indians before Cleveland right-hander Barry Latman tossed a five-hit 2-0 shutout at the White Sox.

Latman In 5-Hit Shutout

Elsewhere in the AL — Al Smith's key hits and Stu Miller's neat relief highlighted Baltimore's 4-1 victory over Minnesota; the Detroit Tigers broke loose for eight runs in the eighth inning and crushed Kansas City 11-2; and Tom Cheney pulled the Washington Senators out of a 10-game losing slump, allowing only four hits in a 4-0 shutout over the Los Angeles Angels.

The Yanks, on the way to their 10th victory in the last 11 games, built up a 4-0 lead as Bouton held the Red Sox hitless until Dick Stuart's leadoff double in the fifth inning. Roger Maris helped put the finishing touches on the rout with his 14th homer in the eighth and a run-scoring single in the ninth.

Bouton, 10-2, recorded his sixth complete game and lowered his earned run average to 2.06. Earl Wilson, forced out with minor shoulder injury suffered in a first-inning collision with teammate Ed Bressoud, was the loser.

Lefty Jack Kralick blanked the White Sox until two were out in the eighth inning of the first game, then singles by Al Weis and Floyd Robinson and a walk loaded the bases, setting the stage for Ward's deciding hit. Ray Herbert won it, with strong two-inning relief from Hoyt Wilhelm.

Latman struck out seven and did not allow a walk in the Tribe's second game victory. Cleveland got its two runs in the first against towering rookie Dave DeBusschere.

Smith homered, doubled and singled for Baltimore, driving in two runs, scoring one and setting up another. Miller turned the Twins back without a hit after replacing Steve Barber with the bases full and one out in the seventh. Barber won his 11th against five defeats, with Dick Stigman the loser.

Bubba Phillips had a triple and three singles in Detroit's 10-hit offense. The A's clipped Mickey Lolich for 11 hits, but the rookie southpaw went the distance as the Tigers beat Kansas City for the third time in a row. Detroit had lost 10 straight before taking on the A's, who have dropped seven of their last eight.

Nolan, Welch Pace Attack For Post 374

Key hits by Nolan and Welch drove in five runs as Post 374 took a 9-3 victory over Hanoverton Sunday on the Hanoverton diamond.

Trailing 2-1 going into the third inning, the East Liverpool nine rallied for five runs, enough to put the game on ice.

Nolan pounded a home run and triple and Welch clubbed a three-bagger and single. Heddleston and Hasenstab collected two hits each for Post 374.

Hurling a three-hitter was Porter as Post 374 won its third game in four starts.

Potter Assistant Takes Grid Post

Jack Bair, an assistant football coach at East Liverpool High School for the past two seasons, resigned today to accept the head coaching job in football at Tuscarawas Valley, a Class A high school near Dover.

The native of New Philadelphia, who served as backfield coach under Bob Hedmond at ELHS, signed a three-year contract at Tuscarawas Valley.

Bair will be called upon to lift a veteran club returning out of a losing campaign last season. Tuscarawas Valley showed a 3-7 record in 1962. The school competes in the seven-team Tuscarawas Valley League.

Before coming to East Liverpool two years ago, Bair was an assistant coach at Greenfield, Ohio, where in three years, the school compiled an outstanding 24-2-1 record. At East Liverpool, the Potters have showed a 6-14 mark in the last two seasons.

The 26-year-old Bair, played high school football at New Philadelphia and was graduated from Ohio University. After playing one season at Ohio U., he was injured and had to give up football.

Bair will also serve as head coach in one spring sport at Tuscarawas Valley. He was head baseball coach at ELHS for two seasons.

JACK BAIR
Takes Head Grid Job.

Bair will be in charge of seven-man coaching staff including four on the varsity level and the others in the junior high program.

He replaces Ed Baran, who resigned the head coach job, but will remain on the faculty.

Bair is married to the former Joan Wright of East Liverpool. They have three children.

Spahn Tops G-Men For 10th

Clemente Strikes Winning Blow; Reds 1 Back

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Carl Willey is the only state of Maine in the major leagues. Warren Spahn is the only Warren Spahn.

To their unique status each added a sparkling performance Sunday.

Willey pitched his third shutout of the season, became the only New York Mets starter who has won as many as he has lost and played the key role in pitching the club out of the National League cellar for the first time ever as late as June.

Spahn beat the San Francisco Giants 10-4 for his 10th victory, eighth complete game and 337th career win, and hit his 33rd home run, high for National League pitchers.

Spahn's victory kept the second place Giants from moving up on the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals, who fell to the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

While the leaders were faltering, the Cincinnati Reds charged to within one game of the top by sweeping a doubleheader from the puncheon Houston Colts, 4-0 and 8-1. The Colts fell into 10th place.

Pittsburgh battled back to take the Chicago Cubs 7-6.

Willey won the first game of a doubleheader over the Philadelphia Phils 5-0, and Tracy Stallard, with ninth-inning help from Al Jackson, won the second 4-1.

Willey, 32, was born in Cherryfield, Maine, and even speaks to umpires with a broad A. He set the Phils down with two hits, triples by Johnny Callison in the fourth and Tony Taylor in the sixth, and evened his record at 6-6, best on the Mets.

Jimmy Piersall hit his first homer as a Met in the first game, his 100th of his career, and celebrated the occasion by circling the bases running backwards.

Spahn gave up homers to Harvey Kuenn and Tom Haller and trailed 3-2 after Hank Aaron's 21st home run for the Braves.

With one out in the fifth, the fantastic 42-year-old left-hander homered off Jack Sanford to tie the score. That set off a seven-run inning.

Bob Purkey threw the first game shutout for the Reds over the Colts, the first complete game this season for the sore-armed right-hander who won 23 games last year. It was the fourth straight shutout defeat for the Colts, tying a major league mark.

Robinson, in his 23rd year of fighting for cash, has a 150-12-3 record, including 98 knockouts.

homer for the Reds in the opener and Bob Skinner, Vada Pinson and Jesse Gonder homered in the second game.

Jim Gilliam's three-run homer off Ernie Broglio carried the Dodgers to victory and to within 1½ games of the lead.

The winning pitcher was Bob Miller, who took over for starter Johnny Podres in the first after Dick Groat had hit a two-run homer. Miller went six and allowed the other run, and Ron Peranowski finished up.

Roberto Clemente struck the major blow for the Pirates, a three-run homer in the seventh inning. The Cubs knocked out starter Vernon Law in a four-run first but frittered away the lead on some shabby fielding. Ron Santo homered for a 6-4 Cub lead but Glen Hobbie couldn't hold it.

BASEBALL HEROES

PITCHING—Carl Willey, Mets, recorded two-hitter for his third shutout of the season in opening game as Mets swept doubleheader from Philadelphia, 5-0 and 4-1, and climbed out of National League cellar.

BATTING — Roberto Clemente, Pirates, hit game-winning three-run homer in seventh inning and two singles in 7-6 victory over Chicago Cubs.

The bald eagle finally received protection in all states in 1940.

Over 46,000 Turn Out To Old Indians Of '48

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lou Boudreau, Kenny Keltner, Eddie Robinson, Larry Doby, Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Satchel Paige and others of Cleveland's greatest days of glory in 1948 helped attract the largest crowd of the season to Cleveland Stadium Sunday. There were 46,109 fans in the stands.

The Indians, who brought a world championship to the city in that frenzied year 15 years ago, played a two-inning exhibition game against the American League All-Stars of 1948.

The All-Stars won 5-3 when Tommy Henrich, the old reliable of the New York Yankees, smacked a bases-loaded double. Robinson hit a two-run homer over the right field fence off Hal Newhouser, the southpaw prince of the Detroit Tigers.

The fans were thrilled to see the likes of Joe DiMaggio, Bobby Doerr, Mickey Vernon, Buddy Rosar, Vern Stephens, Hoot Evers and pitchers Joe Page, Joe Coleman and Walt Masterson. Birdie Tebbetts, now Cleveland manager, also was a member of that All-Star crew.

Sugar Ray Faces Joey Giardello

(c) 1963, King Features
Sugar Ray Robinson and Joey Giardello, a couple of old men of the ring, recapture the boxing spotlight tonight.

Robinson, 43, a five-times holder of the middleweight crown, and Giardello, nearly 33 and still the No. 3 contender of the 160-pound set, clash in the featured 10-rounder at Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

Sugar Ray no longer is ranked among the top ten but his magic name will lure a large crowd, including Cassius Clay. They'll all be hoping to see the former boxing great display a little of his old time form.

Giardello, who will be 33 on July 16, has won three straight including decisions this year over Wilf Greaves and Ernie Burford. The Philadelphia native is 82-22-7, including 28 knockouts. He is in his 13th year of pro fighting.

Robinson, in his 23rd year of fighting for cash, has a 150-12-3 record, including 98 knockouts.

The Dentists jumped on pitcher Bob Woods for three runs in the first inning then scored two runs each in the fifth and sixth frames. Jeff MacLean spaced six hits in gaining the victory for the Dentists while his teammates backed him with a strong 10-hit attack.

Johnson and Neisser smacked triples for the Dental nine while Belz collected a pair of singles. Blythe and Scott led the Lawyers with two hits each.

In the two other games, the Realtors were beaten twice. Central Service picked up a 4-1 victory. Both Dave Chetwynd of Central and Dennis Horger of the Realtors pitched two hitters but the Realtors committed eight big errors which led to their downfall.

Riverview gained a 3-1 victory over the Realtors and again four errors proved costly for the losers. Tom Williams hurled three-hit ball for Riverview while also collected two hits. Densmore and Newlen also collected two safeties each for the winners. Jim Hisom was the loser.

East Stars Win In Ohio Baseball

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For tight competition, the weekend baseball series between East and West All-Star squads of 1963 Ohio high school graduates was quite a dish.

The single game Saturday and doubleheader Sunday produced a total of six runs for each team, but the East eked out 1-0 and 4-1 triumphs and iced the series before the West won the Sunday nightcap 2-0.

With a substantial number of major league scouts among those watching at Jet Stadium, the individual standouts included Craig Erbland of North Canton, Doug Huwer of Dayton Chaminade, Tom Murphy and Harold Reichenbach of Class AA state champion Euclid and Tim Shoda of East Cleveland Shaw.

In the East's pivotal Sunday opener victory, Erbland tripled, singled, then walked and scored the winning run in the last of the ninth on Shoda's booming triple. In the nightcap, Huwer pitched a route-going four-hitter and fanned 10.

For these feats, Erbland and Huwer won honors as the most valuable players on their respective teams.

Murphy worked seven scoreless innings Saturday, then picked up a Sunday triumph in relief for the East. Reichenbach, led all hitters with four safe swats in the three-game set.

Scoring Change Due In Decathlon

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It looks like decathlon competitors — already among the world's hardest-working athletes — will have to sweat harder for their points.

That's the word spreading through track and field ranks today. And the man who's most unhappy about it, is the one who has the most points—C. K. Yang of UCLA.

Dick Nash, chairman of the Southern Pacific AAU Decathlon Committee, says he has been informed that the decathlon committee of the International Amateur Athletic Federation is revising the scoring table on the 10-event feature.

He said it would be ready for the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo. When the points allowed for each of the events are cut, existing records would also be affected.

Nash said a general downgrading is expected.

This could hurt Yang, who broke the 9,000-point ceiling April 27-28 and set a mark of 9,121 now pending for the world record. Under the proposed plan his score could be cut back blow the 9,000-point level.

The scoring table has been revised several times since it was written prior to the 1912 Olympic Games.

The decathlon consists of the 100 meters, broad jump, shot put, high jump, 400 meters, 110 meter high hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and 1,500 meters.

He Leaves The Room During Commercial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After the junior choir at a Louisville church finished singing, the preacher stepped to the pulpit.

When he did, one of the small-fry singers got up and walked out. "I guess," the minister observed, "he's used to leaving the room during commercials."

Qualifying On In Women's Golf

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Four former champions and about 90 other amateurs were scheduled to tee off today in the qualifying round of the 40th Ohio Women's Amateur Golf Tournament at Brookside Country Club.

Defending the title she lost last year was Mrs. John B. Whitacre of Waynesburg. Figured among her leading challengers this time were 1961 champion Judy Rand of Aurora, 1956 and 1957 winner Anne Richardson of Columbus, and a star of a generation ago who is still a good one, 1938 and 1942 "queenpin" Mrs. Charles Beardsley (Janet Shrock) of Dayton.

Another top threat was Mrs. John (Barbara) Pitton of Hamilton, who had considerable success in winter tournaments down South. Carol Diring, twice state champ and four times runnerup, had to forego the event because of a back injury.

Today's medal play establishes the group who will compete for the championship in match play the next four days. The rest will be bracketed in consolation flights.

Lamp's Bird Captures 200-Mile Pigeon Race

Victory came to the Richard Lamp loft in the 200-mile race of the East Liverpool Pigeon Club Sunday from Xenia.

The winning time was 4 hours, 55 minutes and 20 seconds. Pat Connor's birds were second and third with the runnerup timed in 4 hours, 58 minutes and 26 seconds.

Next week's race will be a 500-mile event from Vandalia, Ill. to the winner of this race receiving a large trophy donated by the Wellsville Feed & Supply Co.

White Sox And Yanks Open Crucial Series

CHICAGO (AP)—Unable to get any outside help, the Chicago White Sox will have to take charge themselves if they hope to keep the New York Yankees from turning the American League pennant race into a one-team affair.

The Sox return home from a fairly successful road trip in which they won four of seven games over Minnesota and Cleveland to find themselves two games behind the Yankees.

The two tangle in a four-game series which includes night dates tonight Tuesday and Wednesday and an afternoon affair Thursday. The four games are expected to draw more than 100,000.

Manager Al Lopez' pitching staff appears to be in shape for the big series since Sox hurlers allowed Cleveland a total of four runs in the recent series in which Chicago took three games to one. The Yankees, who haven't been exactly dismantled by the foot injury that has kept Mickey Mantle out of the lineup, invade Chicago with a record of 10 victories in their last 11 games.

Manager Ralph Houk has already named his pitching rotation for the series which the Yankees could use as a stepping stone in turning the race into a runaway. Al Downing will open the series and will be followed by Ralph, who recorded his 10th victory in the 8-0 shutout over Boston Terry, Whitey Ford and Jim Boutland.

Lopez will open with Johnny Buzhardt, who has an 8-3 record this season and defeated the Yankees three times last year. Chances are he will follow with Juan Pizarro, Gary Peters and Ray Herbert.

Friendly Bowling Nine Post 10th League Win

The Friendly Bowling - Merchants made it 10 straight in the County - City League by walking past Negley, 8-2, Sunday on the Negley diamond.

The East Liverpool entry put together a 10-hit attack while Negley was limited to four hits through the combined efforts of Agnew and Carnahan who came on in the seventh inning.

Gary Berhar again had a big day for Manager John Anderson's team as he banged out a home run and two singles and scored a pair of runs. Ron Ensinger, who was a member of the Bowling Green varsity this past spring, clouted a pair of doubles while Prentice had two hits in three trips.

Arizona Takes Amputee Crown

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Right sleeve flapped empty in the wind. He took the golf club in his left hand, swung it away from him, and sank the putt.

A companion snapped his two-fingered hook around a club, wrapped his left hand around it, and swung.

Another player walked up, knee squeaking. His shorts revealed a leg with quite a different shade of tan than his mate's. He made his shot.

The golfers were among 20 who came to Las Vegas for the Western States Amputee Golf Tournament during the weekend.

They are men to whom the word "handicap" might mean more than it does to most golfers — and yet it doesn't.

Tom Cremer of Phoenix, Ariz., won the Western States championship Sunday with 54-hole total of 254.

Not bad for a man with his left leg off below the knee, and half of his right foot gone? Not good, says Cremer, 40.

"Most of our scores were about 10 strokes higher than usual on each round," said Cremer. "The winds were terrible."

We won the Western States title by one stroke over Allen Monts, a San Diego, Calif. school teacher.

The man with the empty right sleeve was third place. He is Burgess Windsor of Stockton, Calif., who swings a right-handed club powerfully across his body from right to left.

He scored 263. In 1961, Windsor tied for the National Amputee championship, but lost in a playoff.

Man Picks Up Wrong Sack To Go To Work

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Robert Asblie of Des Moines picked up the wrong sack when he left home for work the other day.

What he thought was his lunch sack turned out to contain 21 lollipops.

And his 8-year-old daughter Jeanne took a couple of sandwiches to school for a class party.

Newer-Better

SOLID STONE (not veneer). A home that is built the way they used to make them, yet it is not too old either. The living room is about 30 feet long, all hardwood floors, two spacious bedrooms, finished recreation room in the basement, two car garage, fine grounds with barbecue in the back yard. We are very impressed with this property at $16,850.

SHERWOOD AVENUE. Story and a half brick, attached garage, hardwood floors, gas furnace, fully insulated, nice kitchen and bath, two bedrooms on the first floor, semi-finished on the second for an extra large bedroom area. All city utilities except the sewer, and priced at only $13,900. Owner transferred.

PARKWAY. Four bedroom home with modern kitchen, family room, fireplace, two baths, double garage, one acre of shady grassy grounds. $16,950.

CARTWRIGHT STREET. Near the city bus yet in Beaver Local District. One story ranch home, only 8 years old, oil furnace, nice shady lot 90x180 plus the adjoining lot the same size—all for $16,750.

CALCUTTA-Smith's Ferry Road. High level location with a view, two baths, double garage, dining room, basement, oil furnace, three fourths of an acre. $15,900 and more ground available.

836 PALISSEY STREET. A few steps from St. Ann's Church, corner lot, level, one of the nicest arrangements in a two story, three bedroom home that you will find. The downstairs is fully carpeted, fireplace, heated sun porch, painted basement, glistening hardwood floors upstairs. You'll like it!

CLOUD CHAMBERS

QUESTION: What is a cloud chamber?

ANSWER: We all know clouds (A), but what causes them? In (B) we see drops of water vapor condensing, or becoming visible, on minute particles of dust in the air. Given enough of these, we see a cloud.

A "cloud chamber" is a way scientists can also make moisture visible. There are several kinds; the one we show is the simplest. It is a glass container with a metal rod coming down through the top. A clip (1) connects this to a battery, which is also connected with the metal bottom of the container. Under the top (2) is a piece of blotting paper soaked in alcohol. A cork is attached to the end of the rod (3) which has a small dot of radium paint on a pin at its base (4). A block of dry ice (5) on which the container sits chills the air toward the bottom of the container. As the alcohol evaporates from the blotting paper into the air it sinks down and becomes chilled and "supersaturated"—has more moisture than it can hold. Meanwhile, extremely minute "ions" are streaming out from the radium paint, and the extra moisture condenses on them so that they become momentarily visible as "vapor trails." The battery pulls excess ions out of the way and the lamp helps make the vapor trails visible.

FOR YOU TO DO: Watch a cloud chamber in action, if you have an older friend who has one. But be very careful not to get too close to the alcohol, which is very poisonous. Don't touch the dry ice with bare hands. It can give you a bad burn.

Ohio Amvets Want Bells To Ring July 4

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Amvets have asked their national organization to adopt a plan aimed at making the public aware of July 4th.

In a resolution passed Sunday at the closing session of their three-day conference, 300 delegates proposed the ringing of all bells throughout the country on Independence Day.

In another resolution, the Amvets urged Ohio congressmen to try to bring more jobs to Ohio and opposed the transfer of federal jobs to other states. They referred to the loss of jobs created by the move of the U.S. Civil Service office from Cincinnati to Chicago and the U.S. Department of Agriculture dairy branch from Columbus to Minneapolis.

In other action, the delegates selected Fred J. Tonnenmacher of Post 26 in Lexington as "Amvet of the year." Tonnenmacher is a Richland County commissioner.

Sandusky Post 17 won an award for "its outstanding community service," and Post 176 in Richfield was picked for the Americanism award.

Paul C. Welsh of Loveland was re-elected state commander. He is a member of the Cheviot Post 41 near Cincinnati.

Elected state vice commanders were Ralph Walsh Jr. of Massillon, Arnold Troutman of Maple Heights, Dale Livingston of Lorain, Al Seagrave of Toledo, Harry Travis of Mansfield and James Seger of Youngstown. Joseph Repas of Avon Lake was named finance officer and Donald Freda of Columbus, judge advocate.

Three Judo Trophies Thrown For A Loss

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Police are looking for a man who got his self-defense trophies the easy way over the weekend.

He broke into the Don San Judo school and stole three trophies, valued at $45, from a display case.

Bathyscaphe Searches For Sunken Thresher

ABOARD THE USS FORT SNEILING AT SEA (AP)—The Navy today sends its two-man bathyscaphe Trieste a mile and a half to the bottom of the Atlantic with hopes that it will locate the sunken submarine Thresher.

As preparations for the vital descent were completed, Capt. Frank A. Andrews, in charge of search operations, said in a shipboard interview:

"We have evidence to feel we are at the spot where Thresher sank, but you can never know about these things until you get down there and look around. That will be the job of Trieste."

The Navy and scientists were led to a small area of the Atlantic by what they described as a fairly heavy concentration of debris at the bottom and three separate magnetic contacts.

The spot is 220 miles off Boston and only a few hundred yards from the last known position of Thresher when she sank with the loss of 129 men in a test dive last April 10.

A 10-foot wide yellow buoy, named Bagel II because it resembles a bagel, or doughnut, marks the descent spot of Trieste. The buoy is held taut by a half-inch nylon line weighted with two old locomotive wheels of 750 pounds each. It is equipped with electronic fingers and sonar equipment to serve as a guide for Trieste.

Dr. Joseph L. Worzel, chief scientist aboard the Lamont Observatory research vessel Conrad which planted the buoy, said the ship's under-water camera photographed debris as recently as Sunday morning.

He described the new find as a "Big chunk of debris," but refused to elaborate pending an examination of the photograph by Navy officials in Washington.

Capt. Andrews said other significant pieces of debris photographed or recovered from the key area were a battery plate and a sheet of metal measuring about 120 square feet. He said the battery plate dragged to the surface was of the type used inside the pressure hull in Thresher class submarines.

A Navy court of inquiry last week reported destruction of the atomic submarine most likely resulted from the rupture of an engine room pipe under heavy sea pressure.

Free-For-All Brings 10 Arrests At Beach

JONES BEACH, N. Y. (AP)—Police broke up a free-for-all in a beach parking lot Sunday and hauled off 10 bathing-suit-clad young men on disorderly conduct charges.

"Too much beer, too much sun and too much youth," was one park policeman's description of the disturbance involving about 100 youths fighting with fists and beer cans.

A few black eyes and bloody noses were the only injuries. The arrested youths, all white, were jailed in Mineola to await arraignment today.

Woman Hurt By Auto Door

A Chester area woman was admitted to City Hospital Saturday night with injuries suffered when struck by a car door. Five other persons were treated at the hospital over the weekend.

Mrs. Monnie Waite of Chester R. D. 1 suffered a fracture of the left jaw when struck by a car door. She is in "fair" condition today.

Two others were treated Saturday night. Kenneth Lee Erwin, 3½, son of Robert Erwin, 1036 Edgewood Ave., suffered a small laceration of the head when he fell on a cement walk.

John Paul Pugh, 12, son of Paul Pugh of Calcutta, suffered a laceration of the right thumb on a power mower at home.

Cynthia Stewart, 4, daughter of James Stewart of Hookstown, was treated Sunday afternoon for a laceration of the scalp received when she fell from the porch at home.

Edward Wagner, son of Fred Wagner of R. D. 3, suffered a laceration of the scalp when he fell from a wall Sunday night.

William Heaton, 7, son of Gilbert Heaton, 121 Market St., was treated Sunday night for a laceration of the chin received when he fell on a piece of glass.

Milligan Steps Down From His OIC Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus attorney Fred J. Milligan, driving force behind the Ohio Information Committee in its political action campaigns for four years, has resigned as the OIC's executive secretary effective July 1.

Richard W. Shoemaker of Columbus, the organization's field secretary, will assume the executive secretary post. Milligan will continue to serve as OIC counsel.

Bebe Daniels Shows Gains From Stroke

LONDON (AP)—Actress Bebe Daniels is slowly recovering from a stroke and "we are all very hopeful she will pull through," her husband, actor Ben Lyon, said Sunday night.

Miss Daniels, 62, was stricken last month and was on the critical list. Lyon said she can use her hands and arms, and her legs are beginning to respond to treatment.
